The summer is over and the youngsters are back at school. But the parks and recreation spots are still getting plenty of use. This happy foursome was caught by the camera Tuesday afternoon, playing bingo at a picnic table in Centennial Park. In the foreground is Dorothy Baskey of 234 Thomas Street, who accompanies the others to the park every day in nice weather. With her are Emily Renay, Iciey Winters and Jessie Clark, all of Mill Street.

New expropriation policies

If you are one of the property owners who will be directly affected by Ontario Hydro's 109-mile Lennox to Oshawa 500 kilovolt transmission line, and you've got any doubts about how it will affect you, you're going to get a chance to find out.

Hydro will open hearings into land expropriation Sept. 13, at the Holiday Inn, Belleville, starting at 9:30 a.m.

There will be something different about these hearings. Expropriation hearings usually deal only with one piece of property. These hearings will involve an entire route.

The first hearing will not discuss payments, but will simply outline the rights of the property owners.

"Ontario Hydro has altered its methods of expropriation," Hydro public relations officer Norman Manning said. "The new policies will be explained at the hearings."

He did give a hint that Hydro has been conferring with the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

The Scanner will provide you with the next installment next week, after a press conference to be held the day before the hearings begin.

People in Prince Edward County will probably follow the hearings with great interest, as they may be the next in line.

Cost of supplying new power sources to the county are expected to reach $20 million by 1980. There will be a new 230-kilovolt line extended into the County across Hayward Long Reach via submarine cable. There are 82 properties needed for this line, and Hydro hopes to complete expropriations by December 1978.

Lots of ideas - little help

One hundred percent of the 152 people who were surveyed by the Deseronto Recreation Committee said the town needs an organized recreation program.

And they had all kinds of suggestions about things they'd like to see developed... youth clubs, park equipment, ball field, dances, tennis, theatre, curling, roller skating... to name a few.

BUT, 70% of those same people said they wouldn't give any of their time to helping.

How did they think the program should be funded?

Five per cent thought direct taxation was the answer; 38% registration fees; 34% fund-raising, and 56% a combination of all three.

The survey was conducted as part of a nine-week Experience '77 program, funded mainly by the Ministry of Culture and Recreation.

"Results of the survey will be discussed in more detail at the next regular meeting of the Deseronto Recreation Committee on September 13," Jack Layfield, director, said.

The last questionnaire was, "Upon completion of this survey, would you like to see the results printed in the Recreation column of the Quinte Scanner?" Of those polled, 96% said yes... so here they are.

1. In your household, do you have children 18 years of age, or less?
...54% yes. 103 males, 82 females.
2. Have your children participated within the past year in any recreation sponsored program?... minor hockey, 56%; tennis instruction, 8%; gymnastics, 15%; figure skating, 18%; swim program, 10%; baseball, 62%; day camp.
3. Have you and/or spouse been in-valued with minor sports in recent years?... parents, 28%; others, 3%.

4. Do you follow the Recreation News column in the Quinte Scanner?... 50% yes.

5. Would you and/or spouse give of your time to Recreation Programs?... 70% no.

Water costs rising

Deseronto water users are going to be caught in the rising tide of inflation.

The estimated cost of the new water purification plant and the new pump house has almost tripled, from $1.3 million a few years ago, to $3.3 million by last year, and Deseronto's estimated share of the cost has doubled from $440,000 to $880,000. The Ontario Government subsidizes 75% of any sewer or water projects.

"Town Council is still trying to get more assistance," clerk-treasurer Carman Milligan said. "And we have now confirmed a meeting for September 14 with Ontario's Environment Minister George Kerr. Mayor John Neal and some other officials will be going to Toronto."

Asked by the Scanner how the cost of $880,000 would be handled by Deseronto, Mr. Milligan said it would be paid over 40 years, the Ontario Government running the plant and pump house, with Deseronto people paying interest, principal and operating costs in their water rates.

Since 1962, Deseronto people have been boiling their drinking water and paying a flat rate for water used. Deseronto Public Utilities looks after the plant.

Snail's pace

The Canadian Post Office must have used "snail express" for a parcel sent from Montreal to Belleville... in only 364 days.

"It was a COD parcel," said Belleville businessman Don Gorman, who called in to the Scanner office to report the record-breaking speedy delivery service. "Fortunately, it wasn't perishable."

The parcel was mailed from the Place d'Armes post office in Montreal on Aug. 12, 1976 and was received in Belleville on August 11, 1977.

"And then I wasn't notified until Aug. 15 to come and pick it up," Mr. Gorman said.

He hasn't had much luck with parcels. He took another one to an express office recently and was told it would reach Montreal the next day... it took 10 days.

"I think there must be a conspiracy against me," he said.

One of the contestants in the Prince Edward Gold Cup Races, held over the Labour Day Weekend, pilots his craft through the waters of Hayward Long Reach. One driver was killed when another boat crashed into his and two drivers were hospitalized for injuries in another accident. Races were cancelled following the fatality on Sunday afternoon because of choppy waters. (Photo by Melanie Bethel)

We have just received a copy of "Reduction of Tax Burdens Through Tax Credits: Ontario's Experience" published by the Ontario Government which points out that in the first five years of operation the Ontario Tax Credit System has delivered $1.7 billion in tax relief, and that almost three million people a year benefit.

According to the publication, back in the sixties both the Federal and the Ontario Governments set up committees to present proposals for tax reform. During the next few years, the tax structure came under comprehensive study at both levels of Government, Ontario favouring the introduction of selective tax credits and the Federal Government not.

After another three years of discussion Ottawa agreed to administer an Ontario tax credit plan through the income tax

In again

The striking school secretaries employed by the Lennox and Addington County Board of Education are back on the job, at least until the next board meeting on Sept. 12.

The 40 striking members of CUPE local 2050 voted by a narrow 16 to 12 margin at a special meeting last week, to go along with a tentative proposal reached by the union and the board. CUPE representative Ed Scott, Kingston, said that if the trustees reject the contract, the secretaries would be on strike the next day.

So, it was back to school for students this week, on schedule.

system and the Ontario Property Tax Credit Plan was introduced for 1972. In 1973, sales tax and pensioner credits were added.

The report concludes: "This study has documented the success of this program in redistributing tax burdens, and has illustrated that real progress has been made in improving the overall tax burden for low-income Ontario taxpayers."

We're not going to disagree with that. Some progress has been made in relieving some tax burdens.

But, in one area, sales tax credit, the relief is so far in the future that it's no help at all to a great many people.

It's fine to get a tax credit next spring for sales tax you are paying today, if you're flush. But if you are existing on a near-or-below-poverty level (and many Ontario people are) Ontario's seven per cent sales tax can mean the difference between being able to get things you need...clothes, patent medicines, to name a few...or going without.

Good and bad

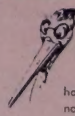

Here's some good news and some bad news for our women readers.

First, the good news. Canadian Press reports a slight increase in the number of women holding directors' jobs.

Now, the bad news. Male directors still outnumber women by 3,364 to 32.

To misquote a familiar commercial... "You've come a short way, baby."

Ain't nothing too exciting happened in our house this week. Elma got one of them chain letters, damn fool things they are too, and this one was a lulu. Said as she would die in nine days flat from getting the letter if'n she broke the chain. We were some mad I can tell you. Why, it seems to me the world gets fuller of foolishness every year. Those folks that send them letters, figuring on getting a lot of something for nothing, never stops to think that somebody, somewhere has to get took.

Any way, Elma broke the chain - she put the foolish thing in the garbage.

Mind you, that's a bad sort of trick to play. She heard later about some young kid who got the same letter and were real scared by it. Now, I ask you, who'd tell a kid they were going to die in nine days if they didn't send the letter on? What sort of idiot would do a thing like that? Makes you wonder don't it?

Folks sure is hard to figure out. Why thousands turned up to watch the motor boats last weekend. But when them big sail boats were racing on the Bay there was hardly anybody bothered stopping to watch them, and they was a real pretty sight. Don't like to think that way; but I guess it must be sailing ain't as exciting as power boats on account of their ain't much chance of seeing somebody get killed or hurt real bad. Same thing as all these thrillers on the TV. Guess life's getting too soft, and folks have to take their risks second hand nowadays. Reckon the only ones who really get anything out of it all is the big companies who get the advertising, still, makes interesting observing, don't it?

MUNICIPALITY OF

THE TOWN OF DESERONTO

NOTICE DESERONTO RESIDENTS RE: ONTARIO HOME RENEWAL PROGRAM

The above program, in which the Town of Deseronto is now officially enrolled, is designed to assist owner occupants to repair their homes to standards developed by the Town Council and accepted by the Ministry of Housing.

Loans up to $7,500 (part of which is forgivable depending on the applicant's "adjusted family income") may be obtained. Interest on the loan is also dependent on "adjusted family income" with the maximum rate being 8 percent.

To be eligible for assistance under this program the following two criteria must be met:

1. the homeowner's "adjusted family income" must not exceed $12,500 and
2. the applicant must be the owner of the dwelling unit and this unit must be his principal residence.

If any homeowner is interested in the program and feels he could be eligible please contact the undersigned for further details.

Letters

To the Editor:

I am preparing a history of Presbyterianism in the Belleville-Hastings-Quinte area and am looking for photographs, prints, or drawings of local Presbyterian churches (exterior and interior views), buildings that were used for Presbyterian services before churches were built, and Presbyterian ministers, elders, and congregational activities before the year 1880.

These are some of the individuals whose photographs or likenesses I am anxious to obtain:

CRAIG, Rev. R.J., minister at Deseronto, inducted 1878; HUME, Rev. James, Free Church minister, Huntingdon, 1876-81; KELSO, Thomas, trustee at St. Andrew's, Belleville, 1870's; McCALL, Rev. James, Free Church minister in rural Hastings, 1862-67; TURNBULL, Rev. John, Free Church minister at Melrose and Lansdale, 1862; BALCANQUEL, James, Thurlow elder, 1860-; DEMORESTVILLE Presbyterian Church; DESERONTO, HUNTERFORD, HUNTINGDON Presbyterian churches; MELROSE, Free Church, opened in early 1850's; NAPANEE church; PICTON church erected 1839; and others.

If you can offer any assistance in this search, please contact me before Dec. 1, 1977, at 173 Bridge Street East, Belleville, or by phone at 968-5023.

Many thanks for your assistance.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

There are some paradoxes built into the heads of the Empire Loyalists which defy all comprehension.

Take this business of pollution, for instance. Is there one member of the Picton Council or the Prince Edward County Council for that matter, who is for it? Of course not. If any of these honourable ladies and gentlemen were to catch us dumping a barrel full of crankcase oil into the bay, they would likely call the police at once.

Take conversation and the protection of the environment. To them it is a good thing - is it not? Of course, why else would they draw maps of the county with areas marked EP (for environmentally protected). Thus any one of us who would venture to build a bonfire on the shore of Long Reach and set of some fire crackers for merriment would very likely be charged with polluting the air with smoke and noise; scaring wildlife; destroying vegetation and other misdeameans.

Then there is the speed of vehicles. That must no get out of hand - must it? How many times have we read that Johnny Doe age 18 travelling at 85 miles per hour, missed the curve and is now taking advantage of the expensive facilities of the Prince Edward County Hospital?

Would these honourable councillors not welcome some way of teaching their children and ours the fact that speed - particularly high speed induced by engines - is dangerous and senseless? Of course they would for they all know, if they stop to think of it, how little it mattered whether they reached Mary or Joe thirty seconds earlier twenty years ago.

The cost of gasoline makes one shudder. How many swimming pools, tennis courts and arenas could we build if we all slowed down and saved that money? How many more needy mothers and children could the county care for?

Honourable Councillors - Ladies and Gentlemen - are you listening? Do you agree that each of these problems deserve your support?

Can you tell us then why you look the other way when they are all bunched together - the noise - the smoke - the oil - the speed - and neatly packaged under the label of Gold Cup Races and why you encourage them?

Do you know that in doing so you encourage your children to follow your example. The example not of what you say but of what you do.

Elizabeth R.

Help for home insulation

Ontario has agreed to several conditions in order to participate in the Federal Government scheme to help Canadians insulate their homes, Jack Ellis, Hastings MP, reports.

A new building code will be adopted and implemented with thermal efficiency standards, provincial sales tax on insulation materials will be removed and Ontario will prohibit bulk metering of electricity in multi-family dwellings.

The Canadian Home Insulation Program came into operation on September 1. Ontario is one of six provinces participating.

Eligible home owners can apply for grants of up to $350 to cover two-thirds of the cost of insulation materials. The grants are taxable.

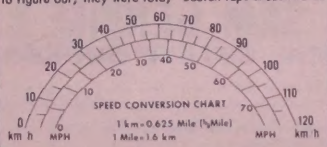

Homes built before 1921 will qualify immediately. The qualifying year will be progressively advanced so that, by 1984, all units completed prior to September 1, 1977, will be eligible.

Metric conversion

The Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications has this advice to help cope with metric conversion: "Remember, when you learn a new language it's best to think in that language instead of translating from the familiar to the new one. The key to learning the metric system is to think metric. Avoid where you can converting back to the old imperial units".

But it looks as if they don't think the advice will be taken, even by their own employees, because the above quote was accompanied by a speed conversion chart, shown below, in the MTC's monthly staff publication.

The Civil Servants were advised to cut the illustration out and paste it on the dashboards of their cars. And, in case that was too complicated for them to figure out, they were told, "Scotch tape should do the trick".

LOOK ALIKES

Last week's Scanner carried a front page picture of a dog, biting at a flea.

The dog is a peculiar-looking dog, with leg's like a horse, a hound's rope tail and oriental slanted eyes. In fact, a unique mixture of at least 75 varieties.

But evidently she isn't all that unique. Kirk McConnell phoned to say she looked like a dog he lost in Prince Edward County.

The dog in the picture, Jingles, belongs to Keith Harford of Picton, and she's been in the family for the past seven years.

If anyone does find a lost dog who looks something like Jingles, Mr. McConnell's phone number is 476-4702.

MILFORD FAIR

It will be get-together, meet-your-neighbour day in Milford next Wednesday, Ed Grayer, secretary for the 50-outh Maryburgh Township Annual Fair reports.

"We don't hold the fair to make money," he said. "It's one day in the year when we can get together with the neighbours and catch up on the news."

But there will be plenty of things for people to do... canoe racing on the Mill Pond, log sawing, helicopter rides and a merry-go-round to give the smaller children dizzy delight.

The fruit, vegetable, crafts, poultry and pet displays are for the township people only, but the baby show will have contestants from all over the county.

You don't have to go home for supper either. You can buy a hot meal and stay around for an evening of Billy Ostrander and his Stepping Stones.

The parade to the Milford Community Centre starts at 1 p.m.

LADY BUG, LADY BUG

"Fly away home, your house is on fire."

Alex Galloway, a teacher at Picton's PECL, will be surprised when he gets home from vacation. His mobile home was gutted in an early morning fire on Highway 49. Fire was spotted by a neighbour in another mobile home. Firemen do not know what started the blaze.

MANPOWER AWARDS

Metcalfe Foods of Deseronto was one of five student employers from the Napanee area to receive a certificate of merit from Canada Manpower and Immigration for helping to make the hire-a-student program successful.

The others were Mayor Lorne Smart, Enbury Brothers of Newburgh, George Vankoughnet and Ace Taxi.

SKY-HIGH HAY

Garnet Mills, agricultural representative in Napanee, is predicting that prices for baled hay in this area may reach all time highs before next spring.

And that seems like a pretty safe prediction...with the crazy weather we've been having.

NO NEWS IS...

Sometimes it's news when nothing happens...like this.

For the first time in weeks, the Napanee and District Pipe Band had one week weekend with no parades.

During the summer, they have paraded from London in the west to Lansdowne in the east, and from Wilberforce in the north to Minoa, N.Y., in the south.

AGE AND SCORE

His age...or his golf score? 84 is either one for Napanee's Bill Markle who shot an 84 in a senior men's golf tournament in Kingston. He regularly plays 18 holes every day in Napanee.

PARDON THE ERROR

Our apologies to Amos Maracle. We left his name out of the list of volunteer firemen with the Mohawk Fire Department.

Mr. Maracle is one of the captains.

OLD CHESTNUT

Here's this week's laugh for women libbers.

That 30-year-old chestnut of a question... "Should married women with children work outside the home?" ...raised its weary head again at the Gold Cup Races.

Miss Gold Cup Shirley McGirr, 18, of Picton, answered in the affirmative. Let's hope the act is updated next year.

ERNESTTOWN COUNCIL

A large portion of the Ontario Home Renewal Program loans, received by Ernesttown Township has been going to Odessa residents to help some with the installation of water and sewer services.

At a council meeting, it was reported that the township is hoping a cheque for $48,000 will be received soon to match another cheque for a similar amount received earlier in the year.

To lift some of the work load from business administrator Ross Blakely, who had been clerk-treasurer until earlier this year, Marie Wilson has been appointed treasurer, a promotion from deputy clerk-treasurer.

Other council business included discussion of drainage problems at two schools, oiling of roads, and decision to hold a robes' clinic sometime in October.

A decision was also made to close the scrap disposal site for an indefinite period.

A HEAP OF POTATOES

Tom Doyle of Mill Street, Deseronto, got 67 potatoes out of one hill.

A retired farmer, Mr. Doyle still has a green thumb.

Kamal Rostom

Many years ago, I read a book entitled "Your Mind Can Heal You". I don't remember now the name of the author, but that is not important. However, the author stated that there is a cosmic mind, that dominates the world and that Mind, which is God himself, has a law and man can use this law in solving his problems and healing his diseases.

The method the author suggests to solve any problem and cure any disease is very simple. You have only to believe that God is everywhere and in everything, no matter how small or undignified it is. Thus God is in man as well as in a cat or a dog. There is a prayer which runs like this: I state your name, believe that God is in me, It is He who does the work. I order the law of mind, my servant to do so and so.

In my distress I used to read that book and repeat that prayer several times a day. I don't think that it worked at that time for me, but I can assert that in the long run my problems vanished, whether due to the passing of time or to the prayer I don't know for sure.

I still have problems. Some of them are very serious and unsolvable, at least at the present time. I confess that I no longer use the prayer, but I pray to God five times a day, as required for a Muslim, and in my prayers I ask God to solve my problems, but up to now I haven't solved any of them. I don't want to be misunderstood. I am not superstitious. I am not a fanatic either, I read the Bible as well as the Koran. I use my mind dexterously, and I analyze every bit of the problem and look at it from every angle. I use logic too. But the problems are still there, unsolvable.

There are many good books on problem solving. I read them too. One of the best of these books is Aaron Levenstein's "Use Your Head". The author quotes professor Karl Duncker's definition of the term problem as "A problem arises from a living creature has a goal but does not know how his goal is to be reached. Whenever one cannot go from the given situation to the desired situation simply by action, then there has to be recourse to thinking." Commenting on Duncker's definition, Levenstein says a problem is the distance between where you are and where you want to be, when there is no visible means of transportation. But thought can carry us from A to Z without knowing what letters are in between. To state your problem involves knowing A, where you are and Z, where you want to be.

It is the second element that is lacking, for people may have a vague understanding of their present situation, but they don't visualize their goal because they live their lives without a philosophy.

My own opinion is that not only are people unable to visualize Z, those who can often don't know how to get there because of the obstacles in their way. That is why they resort to prayers and sometimes to superstition - to Tarot cards, Ouija boards, tea-leaf reading and the like, to solve their problems.

I also believe that time is a factor in solving most of our problems. When you find yourself unable to solve a problem, just forget about it and repeat the wise old adage "I'll think about it tomorrow" and you will be surprised to find out that often the problem solves itself without any interference on your part.

New stamps

Elsewhere in this issue, there is an item about "snail parcel express" via the Canadian Post Office.

A couple of press releases, received this week, totalling 8 pages in all, provide reassurance that the post office people have been very busy...they've been designing some new stamps.

One, to mark the opening of the 23rd Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference to be held in Ottawa this month, shows the Peace Tower, with the Canadian flag flying.

Two others commemorate historical figures...Sir Sandford Fleming and Joseph-Elzéar Bernier.

The Fleming stamp features his picture with a train crossing one of the steel bridges he designed. The other illustrates Bernier caught in the ice, during one of his Arctic expeditions.

Now that that's out of the way, maybe the Canada Post Office will get back to business and give a little more attention to getting our mail through promptly.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Younger people should be encouraged to get involved in sports.

Difficulty of senior citizens to go places.

Need for recreation events involving skills, as opposed to competitive events.

More creative activities needed.

Occasional free skating and/or seasons tickets.

Teen groups to work on community projects and theatre for young people.

Need for more girl's clubs.

Proper recognition for volunteer work.

Make better use of arena.

Usually a public library is a very quiet place and you are likely to get "shhhd" if you start talking out loud. But last Thursday afternoon was an exception at Deseronto's Public Library when a tea was held to welcome the new librarian, Gloria Greenfield, and to say goodbye to the former librarian, Heather Granatstein. Heather is shown in the foreground of the above photo.

Decisions, decisions

Choices in a library usually involve books, and a lot of browsing has to be done before the choice is made.

But seven-year-old Brian Lawlor, 310 Maple Street, had a different kind of difficult choice to make at Deseronto Library last week. He is trying to make up his mind which of the goodies he'll take from the table loaded with refreshments provided at the Library tea. "Brian's been coming to the library since he was a baby," said his mother, Elaine Lawlor. "I've been a book borrower here for 19 years, and I used to bring the baby in the carriage with me." His sister, Brenda, has been working part time in the library since she was in grade 6. She is now going into grade 13.

More jobs unlikely

The order for 130 new ambulances for the Provincial Ministry of Health is not likely to mean any additional jobs in Deseronto.

Superior Division of Sheller Globe is planning to fit the production of one ambulance a day into the regular schedule of four-per-day output of school buses.

The first of the ambulances is expected to roll off the assembly line some time this week.

Good loan response

There has been a good response to the Ontario Home Renewal Program in Deseronto, Carman Milligan, clerk treasurer reports.

Fourteen preliminary loan applications have been filled in and some other people have shown an interest.

When an application is received, Mr. Milligan said, an inspector goes out to make sure the renovations will meet standards.

HOW TO PRESERVE CHILDREN
This recipe came from a 50 year old cook book. It is as suitable today as it ever was.

1 large grassy field
1/2 dozen or more children several dogs (and puppies if in season)
1 creek or brook
Pebbles.

Into the field pour the children and dogs. Allowing them to mix well. Pour the brook or creek over the pebbles, sprinkle with flowers. Spread over all a deep blue sky and bake in the sun. When brown remove and set to cool in the bathtub. When dry serve with milk and cookies.

MATRIMONY JAM

3 cups each of chopped plums, firm pears and cooking apples (pared) pitted or cored.
1 cup cut-up orange sections
1/2 cup water
6 cups sugar.

Combine plums, pears, apples and orange sections and water in one kettle. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Add sugar. Stir over moderate heat until dissolved, then boil rapidly, stirring until thick (anywhere from 25 to 40 minutes). This jam thickens as it stands, so do not overcook.

Remove from heat, ladle into hot jars and seal.

APPLE DATE BUTTER

1 pound dates, sliced
2 1/2 cups sliced apples
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon cloves.

Place all ingredients in saucepan and mix well. Cook about 25 minutes over medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Beat. Pour into hot sterilized jars. When cool refrigerate.

RED AND GREEN CABBAGE SALAD

1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 apple grated
1 1/2 tablespoons grated, drained horseradish
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
Salt and pepper to taste
2 cups finely shredded red cabbage
2 cups finely shredded green cabbage
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
Lettuce

Blend mayonnaise with apple, horseradish, vinegar, sugar, salt and pepper. Add half of dressing mixture to cabbage of each colour and mix lightly. Put red mixture on a bed of lettuce and top with green mixture.

New CB regulations

Citizen Band transmitters and monitors are at all time high in sales and popularity...and they have proved useful on many occasions.

The scanner reported one incident, last week, where CB'ers Ray Haynes and Dorothy Fraser alerted police to an accident on Highway 2, near Deseronto, and arranged for prompt assistance to the injured.

But there have been problems. The airways can get clogged up and sometimes monopolized by over-zealous broadcasters.

So a new regulation, effective within the next couple of months, includes restrictions on the frequencies which may be used, as well as the level of power permitted. And all owner/operators will be required to license their sets and use their call numbers at all times.

Wintario losers

You can lose money as well as win it as a result of the Wintario lottery, the Prince Edward Racing Club has discovered.

The Club had requested that the Wintario Draw of last week be held in Picton, as a kick-off for the Gold Cup Races. In order to televise the draw from Picton, a temporary micro-wave tower had to be set up at a cost of $5,000, and the racing club had to guarantee $1,500 of the cost.

To do this, they sold 53 tickets for the show, held in the PECL. But there were only about 400 takers, at most 100 short of the number needed.

"The first Wintario draw was not televised. However, the organizers soon realized that the lottery should be looked on as fun," said Barbara Jesson, manager of the draws and community relations. "Not many people look on the lottery as a get-rich scheme. Sometimes groups buy tickets, then sit around the TV and watch the show. It's an evening's entertainment."

While the crowd turnout was disappointing and the Prince Edward Racing Club forked out some $400 for people to watch the fun on TV, it did have a bright side.

"I don't think you could get better advertising for $400," Frank Wright, club chairman, said.

Hey! Wait!

Richard Parks, one of the men working on the paving of Deseronto's Main Street, Wednesday, looked up to see the car he had left parked on the street disappearing around the post office corner.

Someone had taken advantage of the fact that he had left the keys in the car.

And the car, a '71 Mercury, was even his. He was using it for the day.

Blowing in the wind

Steven Shippen, 15, of 149 Dundas Street, Napanee, says he gets yelled at by his parent if he doesn't practice his bagpipes outside but the neighbours don't seem to mind too much.

"Most of the neighbours like it," says Steve. "One person complained that I didn't play enough."

Steven, a grade 10 student at the Napanee High School is a member of the Napanee Pipe Band which consists of 12 pipes and six drummers. He is already quite proficient in this difficult instrument although he has been playing for just over a year.

He explains that the reason for taking up the pipes is that his mother is a McMathison and his father likes the sound of the pipes...but not that much.

Steve normally practises only the chanter or finger pipe section of the instrument but has to revert to these outdoor session to keep up his wind.

Police Chief commended

A five-man inquest jury, charged with finding by what means 15-year-old Jaymie Scott of Deseronto died last June, was definite in its findings that the youth was already in the throes of death when he was run over by a police car driven by Deseronto's Chief of Police Carl Beattie.

The jury concluded that Chief Beattie could not be faulted for any of the events surrounding the tragedy and had "competently and carefully attended to all details."

Ontario Provincial Police identification officers testified that it was their opinion that Chief Beattie could not see the out-stretched body of the boy when he rounded the corner between the municipal pump house building and a sea cadet building and recommended that the roadway be blocked off with a permanent structure. Also recommended was that resuscitation equipment complete with tubes for airway passages be placed in cruisers to avoid the mouth-to-mouth practice and to avoid the person giving respiration from having to ingest the other person's vomit.

Jaymie Scott was lying face up on the road. He had vomited and aspired a massive amount of his vomit which caused him to become gravely ill, almost to the point of death, before he was run over by the police cruiser.

Evidence indicated that the boy had collapsed, unconscious, after taking part in a "strenuous wrestling match on a hot day". His wrestling partner was 14-year-old Christopher Hart.

Another 14-year-old, Douglas

Hawthorn, discovered the fallen boy and left the scene in search of the police chief, who reached the spot on a regular patrol no more than five minutes later.

Loan plan stalled

Deseronto has run up against a problem in its administration of the Ontario Home Renewal Program.

When a preliminary loan application is received...there have been 16 eligible ones to date...a building inspector has to go to the house and list all the repairs required to get into the program and the owner has to agree to do all these things in order to get a loan.

But, Deseronto has no building inspector.

At the meeting of Town Council, Monday night, several suggestions were heard...to make use of the county building inspector (a route which could not be finalized for some weeks...until after the next County Council meeting); to make use of the building inspector on the Reserve; or to get a building inspector of their own, paid on a per-application basis.

"I feel all jobs should be advertised," Councillor David Martin said.

It was agreed council would advertise for an inspector.

At one point in the OHRP procedures, applications must be approved by Council. It was agreed that Council, as a whole, would do the approving. Applications will carry numbers, not names.

HYDRO EXPROPRIATIONS

Activity in this area soon

The expropriation hearings, underway in Belleville now, concerning the completion of Ontario Hydro's 500-kilovolt transmission line from the Lennox Generating Plant to Oshawa, should be of great interest to the people of Prince Edward County and landowners along the Adolphustown side of the Long Reach.

Within the next ten days, Ontario Hydro is filing applications for approval to expropriate property for that line under the Hayward Long Reach into Prince Edward County.

This information was forthcoming at a press conference held the day ahead of the Sept. 13 expropriation hearings in Belleville.

Expropriating property is a long... and rather confusing...business. In fact, one aspect, preliminary offers, has caused Hydro a lot of headaches since they were sent out in connection with the Lennox Oshawa line, according to J. Gordon Laschinger of Hydro's property division, who was in charge of briefing at the press conference.

"Preliminary offers are in the general ball park area," he said. "It's hard to tell what the situation will be in a few months' time."

Well, if you are one of the property owners who will be affected by expropriations to bring more hydro into Prince Edward, (and the Queen might take note because the property under the Hayward Long Reach belongs to the Crown, as far as anyone has been able to tell the Scanner) let's try to unscramble the sequence of events that will be happening to you by following what has and what will be happening to the Oshawa-to-Lennox line.

Ontario Hydro applies to the Ontario Government for approval to expropriate property for a right of way (chosen after consideration of a number of factors). Following delivery of notices of Hydro's application for this approval to expropriate and advice of compensation to property owners along

"Nuclear opposition doesn't matter"

Are you against the expansion of nuclear power sources?

If so, there's an item on page two, quoting an Ontario Hydro spokesman, which might interest you.

Mom is usually the skillful one at handling pots. But Jay Groyer is getting a chance to tell his mother, Betty, of RR 2 Milford, something new about pots...how to make them. It's a new hobby for Betty. (For story, please see page 5.)

Editorial

Small business men have a tough time of it. Recent Government reports about small business failures are disheartening. Many fall by the wayside because of competition with the major chain stores.

It is strange, then, to see a group like the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce so enthusiastic about the new, huge A and P store planned for Pictou.

One voice of caution was raised at the Chamber's meeting this week. Fred Lowenberger, proprietor of the Hi-Way Food Market, warned, "Don't welcome it too wholeheartedly. It could mean the end of small business men in Pictou".

A look at the 30,000 square foot size planned for the new A and P store...double the floor space of the existing A and P, plus IGA, plus Hi Way Food Market...raises serious doubts that grocery sales alone could justify the cost of such a large area.

And the question arises, will they branch out into other types of merchandise as the A and P has done in other areas, such as Amnirap, and start competing with the town's hardware and other small merchandising stores...finally putting some of them out of business entirely?

Perhaps the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce should take another look...if it isn't too late now to change things.

LENNOX GENERATING STATION

Possible nuclear expansion

There will be some expansion of the facilities at the Lennox generating station, and they could be nuclear, according to Norm Manning, public relations officer for Ontario Hydro's eastern region.

Mr. Manning made the statement in answer to a query at a press conference held in advance of the Sept. 13 expropriation hearings into the right of way for the 500 kilovolt transmission line linking Oshawa to the line going north from the Lennox station.

A future "energy centre to help supply Eastern Ontario", with lines running up to Ottawa, was the way Mr. Manning described the Lennox generating station.

When questioned about the fact that there appeared to be a lot of opposition to the idea of a nuclear plant in the Lennox area, he said, "Opposition doesn't matter" modifying this later to, "there is opposition everywhere".

D.G.Fry

Letter

I was pleased to note that in her letter regarding the adverse aspects of the Gold Cup races, Elizabeth R. referred to Long Reach as just that--Long Reach, the name given to a once-long stretch of water by early settlers.

The addition of Hayward's name to the term Long Reach is as unnecessary as was his regrettable death (and the death/injury of others) in this annual orgy of gas-guzzling pollution.

Well, sure is fair season right a dach. Me and Elmo are doing the rounds, looking at all the displays and livestock, the way we always do. In fact, the reason I missed my column a couple of weeks back was on account of us going down the CN to have a look around. We seen all them ads about the country coming to the city and figgered we'd go and take a look, seeing as there should oughter be stock from all over the place there. Well, we were down right disappointed. It was the first time we made the trip, and I'm telling you that there's more livestock in the local fairs than there is at the CNE. Struck us as one great big midway. Figger we'll stick with the Royal Winter Fair from now on.

Reckon we've done most of the local fairs this year. My favorites are still Millford and the Mohawk Fair, they're both real old-fashioned events, not nearly as commercial as most.

Course, me and Elmo like to see the goats, an account of our Pennel-opy. Funny the way folks always figger that their stock is better'n any on show, even when deep down they know it ain't so. Guess you get attached to them.

Talking about folks getting to be fond of their creatures puts me in mind of this one feller I knows up to Bloomfield. Coupla years ago he sold all his beef cattle, just kept one steer to feed up fer the freezer. Well that old steer is still going strong. Seems he just can't bear to part with it. Gets bigger and fatter every year, his wife says that the beef o'n that animal must be worth at least nine dollars a pound. Sure makes fer expensive eating.

Then there were all the farmers as struck their draft horses around after the tractors took over. I recall Norm Latchford had a team for years and so did Bert Katchapaw over at Fish Lake. They always said they kept 'em for working wet land early in the spring when you can't take a tractor on her, but seems to me not many of these fellers replaced them old horses when they died of old age. I got some room to talk though, I done the same thing.

Then there's another feller I know who's right attached to his sheep. Keeps cookies in the barn for 'em on the quiet. Has one there he raised on a bottle as a boy, and that old ewe is still going strong, but she must be as old as the hills.

Myself, I think it's a real good sign that the small farmers still are fond of their stock. Goes to show that the big agribusiness ain't done a complete take over yet, not in these parts anyways.

Fire exits in new by-law?

A by-law, prescribing standards for the maintenance and occupancy of property within the Town of Deseronto was given first reading at Monday's Council meeting, and caused a lot of discussion, particularly in the area of fire exits from older buildings.

"There is no place in this by-law for proper fire exits," Councillor Allan Bloyney said. "It doesn't say anything about an alternate exit. I've noticed some of the old buildings that have been made into apartments are very lax in fire escapes and escape balconies. I think fire safety is as important in this by-law as what you have in your bathroom."

Councillor David Martin commented that he felt some rental accommodation wouldn't pass present by-laws, and that the proposed by-law would help rental people who need help to have decent housing.

Mayor John Neal said the situation "can't be cleaned up overnight. It's going to take time."

In another area, council was advised that there was no deadline for a third reading of the land use by-law but Councillor Martin suggested it be done this fall.

Mayor Neal advised councillors that if they had any changes to submit them in writing before the next council meeting.

Members of the by-law committee will meet on September 20, at 7:00 p.m., in the Council Chambers.

BUCKLING UP PAYS OFF

Here's a happy report from Demorestville about two teenagers who had the good sense to obey the law and buckle up their seat belts.

Driver Perry Gordon Newnham, 18, of RR2, Pictou and his passenger Brenda Reddick, 16, of Demorestville were driving a few miles north of Pictou when their car overturned on a curve.

Provincial police reported the pair were wearing seat belts.

Damage to the car, $2,500. Damage to the people, minor injuries only. When will other people learn?

ONE MAN CRUSADE

A one-man crusader, A.J. Wood, is calling for tougher actions to free Napanee river from pollution.

Mr. Wood charges that Napanee is guilty of an offence against humanity because, since 1974, the organic loading of the river has been more than it could absorb.

He puts the blame equally on the Town of Napanee and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment for bureaucratic bungling.

His suggestion for dealing with milk wastes from a local plant was to truck them to some source capable of handling such wastes.

"Now it's time to act," he told Environment Minister, George Kerr. ... And he's right. No use crying over spilt milk.

TOMBSTONE TOUCH-UP

A maximum of $1,000 of the grant received from the County Rural Employment Program is going to be spent by South Fredericksburgh of restoration of cemeteries in the municipality.

This was decided at a recent council meeting.

In preparation for the winter months ahead, Council is contacting North Fredericksburgh Council, requesting their co-operation in maintaining and assuming winter maintenance of roads belonging to the Township of Adolphustown north of Hay Bay.

A discussion regarding salaries, hours and duties of the administrative staff resulted in the matter being referred to a committee for recommendations.

IF AND WHEN

There have been a lot of rumours about a federal election but nothing definite yet.

However, Ross Baker, Arden, is going to be ready for it if and when it comes.

He's declared his candidacy as an independent for the new Federal Riding of Hastings-Frontenac.

He has made seven previous unsuccessful attempts to serve as a member of Parliament.

His platform ... he intends to work for justice and equality for all Canadians.

FUN DAY

Saturday will be Fun Day for South Fredericksburgh and Adolphustown. In honour of the Queen's Jubilee, a day's events of horse shoe pitching, tug of war, dancing, track and field events and other activities will take place at the South Fredericksburgh Township Barns.

Final plans for Fun Day were made at the meeting of the Adolphustown Recreation Committee, held at the home of Bob Moles, who chaired the meeting.

MORE GOLD CUPS

The Prince Edward Gold Cup races are going to be continued, despite the death of Alain Mercier in the 1977 races. Two other drivers were injured in this year's races too.

"In any kind of racing, the participants take chances. You come to expect it," John Sibthorpe, racing committee chairman said.

ENROLLMENTS DOWN

Schools in the Quinte area have been reporting a slight drop in enrollment for public and secondary schools and a slight increase in the Separate Schools. Deseronto is showing the same trends.

Some 296 students are enrolled at Deseronto's public school, down a bit from last year.

The Marysville Separate School reports that enrollment is up a little, compared with projection figures.

SQUARE FACE LIFT?

The Market Square in Napanee may get a face lift.

Town council is investigating the possibility of resurfacing it, the area is cracked and beginning to sink in some spots.

At the same time, council will consider a park area in front of the Twon Hall, an idea which originated with the Kinsmen Club.

MORE EXPENSIVE SEWERS

North Fredericksburgh Township is still willing to discuss a sewer and water agreement with Napanee and Richmond Township, but is sticking to its position that the costs for the $5,844,000 five-year program are too high.

Napanee and Richmond have already voted to accept the plan by the Greater Napanee and Area Water Supply and Pollution Control Board, which calls for government funding, impact charges, user fees and the possibility of a three-mill increase to taxpayers in the service area.

The project has been on the books for two years already.

Sounds like a good place for a little "oil on troubled waters", but, there's enough pollution in our waterways already.

OUT IN THE COLD

The South Fredericksburgh Diet Club is going to have to find a new meeting place, due to the renovations scheduled to commence at the Township Hall. Township Council will let the club know they find it impossible to provide heated, comfortable facilities for the club in the immediate future.

Of course, members of a diet club, or any other kind of fitness club know that they'll make more headway meeting in a cold, uncomfortable place where they have to keep running to keep warm.

Retirement at the wheel

What do people do with themselves when they take early retirement, pull up their city roots and head for the Isle of Quinte?

Betty Gray of RR 2, Milford, has found her answer...pottery.

Working with her hands in clay has opened up a whole new world to her.

"It's wonderful, physically and mentally," she says, "to sit in front of a piece of clay and work it into something lovely with your hands."

When Ed Gray retired, a few years ago, from the company he had worked with for about 40 years, he was still in his fifties. His wife, Betty, is a little younger. Both were still a long way from the normal retirement age of 65 and she, too, had been used to being busy on a job.

"I wanted something to do," she said, "but not just some 'drone-like' job just to make money or get out of the house."

"I'd never been too creative, but I started going to night classes to learn drawing and then I went on to water colours."

Then their son, Jay, came home from the west coast.

Jay is a potter. Although he was enrolled in a pottery course, most of what he knows he learned from working with other potters.

He set up his pottery wheel, which he made himself, and a kiln in his family home.

Pottery would be pretty expensive for the average amateur hobbyist to get into. Jay estimates that his operation cost about $600 to set up and would have cost more if he had not been able to service his own kiln and make his own wheel.

But his mother, Betty, was in a position to start it as a hobby, because the equipment was readily available.

Jay Gray and his mother show off some of their pottery pieces, which are among those on display around their home.

"Pottery opens a lot of new doors to you," she said. "You start reading the literature on the subject and you go to sales and meet interesting people. I'm very grateful I had the opportunity to get into this."

The Grays have two wheels now and they keep them humming. The "studio" is full of pieces of pottery... cups, vases, goblets, butter dishes... in various stages of production. Some, just fashioned on the wheel, are drying, some have come out of the firing kiln, others are completely finished.

What do they do with them all?

Jay would like to build his own large kiln and make pottery his living. Some of his work is on sale now, at the Paradise in Pictou, and other outlets have shown an interest. With a new, larger gas kiln, he would increase his production.

Meanwhile, he's doing carpentry and other work, fitting his pottery into what free time is available.

Betty's husband, Ed, has tried out the wheel, she said, but he has his own other interests. He likes gardening and, right now, he's busy getting the woodpile ready for the winter. He's also been putting a lot of work into organizing the Milford Fair. He's on the fair board and is active with the Milford library board.

Betty isn't sure whether she'd be involved in pottery in a commercial way, at some later date. Meanwhile, she's enjoying her new hobby and getting a lot of pleasure from it.

Betty Gray, RR 2, Milford, takes a critical look at pottery produced at home. The items are sitting on the kiln set up by her son, Jay.

Kamal Rostom

In some stages of my life I was fascinated by the philosophy of existentialism which claims that man is ultimately alone in an absurd universe. Jean-Paul Sartre, the contemporary philosopher, influenced me more than any other philosopher. He poses the following questions and answers:

Why does man exist in the first place? He does not and cannot know. There is no real purpose in his being. Here are, we know not why, and all we can say is that we ought to live our lives in spite of the total absurdity of the universe, with as much dignity and responsibility as we can muster. But man must shoulder moral responsibilities he must not heed convention or external pressure, but rather act in compliance with his subjective decisions. Nothing outside man is of any real significance. It is only his own existence that is primary and fundamental and vital. In his play "No Exit" Sartre tells us the story of three people, two women and a man. The three of them are lodging in a hotel bedroom in hell. One woman betrays her husband and is the cause of his death. The other woman is an abnormal creature and is responsible for the destruction of life upon earth. The third character, the man, is a coward who shuffles off his duty and responsibility. The three are condemned to spend eternity together in this room which has no exit at all. Sartre wants to give us a picture of the human nature as he conceives it. These three people are the torture of each other, they can't escape from each other, neither can they live with each other. The man says, "So this is Hell, I'd never have believed it. Do you remember all we were told about the torture chambers, the fire and brimstone? There is no need for red-hot pokers. Hell is other people."

I don't think Hell is other people. Indeed, we badly need those others for the simple reason that we can't live alone. We need to mix with people, to share with them our joys and sorrows, for as Lowell Russell Ditzgen puts it, "You don't live alone. Deep in the heart of your fellow man is an awareness of you, a responsiveness to you. One of the beautifully mysterious facts of life is this, when you feel deeply alone, at that time you can also feel closest to mankind."

Aloofness from mankind doesn't make any man happy. That is why, in my personal experience, I find it very hard to live by myself. I try hard to make friends with anyone I meet. It is fun to be surrounded with people.

Some religious men label existentialism "a sick philosophy". I disagree with them, but on the other hand I love humanity and I adore people. I don't think there are any moments equal to the happy moments I spend with others. In my opinion, Paradise is other people.

A new suction machine has been purchased at a cost of $400 from money donated to the Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital Remembrance Fund. The money, totalling about $500 altogether was donated in honour of the memory of Frank McConnell who was a member of the hospital's maintenance staff for eleven years until his death in early June of this year. Pictured above are hospital administrator Bruce Scott; Mrs. Alberta McConnell, member of the hospital housekeeping staff, and Mrs. Doris Lyne, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. A commemorative plaque is mounted on the base of the machine which is an essential part of the hospital's recovery room equipment.

THE DESERONTO REPORTER

News and events of specific interest to the residents of the Town of Deseronto

Wednesday, September 14, 1977

This hawk moth paid a brief visit to Lott's Jewellery store on Deseronto Main Street last week. It measured about three inches

Council Briefs

Deseronto Council, at its Monday meeting, decided to make no change in insurance coverage at this time. The matter will be discussed again several months in advance of policy renewal dates.

The Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications is still working on a solution to some existing problems resulting from repairs to Highway 2. Council is waiting for confirmation in writing from MTC that the problems will be settled.

Mayor John Neal, Councillor David Martin and clerk treasurer Corman Milligan will be in Toronto on Wednesday to discuss estimated costs of the new water purification plant and pump house with Ontario's Environment Minister George Kerr.

A recommendation from Deseronto's Chief of Police Carl Beattie for promotion for two constables has been given to committee for review.

Councillor F. Vick brought two problem areas to Council's attention... the obstruction of Fourth and Main Streets which hampers the view of drivers making a turn, and the drop down from the sidewalk on the east side of Main Street. "A lot of old people use it and someone is going to get hurt," he said. He was asked to prepare a presentation for Council.

A request for severance of a Main Street property was turned over to the by-law committee.

$100 was given to the Cobalt Disaster Fund.

Council was challenged to a softball game with the Canadian Legion, next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock in the public school grounds.

HELP WANTED

BUILDING INSPECTOR

The Town of Deseronto requires a part time building inspector in conjunction with the Ontario Home Renewal Program to be operated in the Municipality.

The successful applicant will be responsible for the inspecting of each loan applicant's property as follows:

1. Initial inspection of property for necessary and eligible repairs as defined under the program
2. Progress inspection of repairs being carried out.
3. Final inspection of work on completion of repairs.

Salary will be on a per loan application basis and is negotiable.

Applications may be submitted to the undersigned. Please provide outline of personal data, experience and qualifications.

Closing date September 16, 1977.

Deseronto Legion News

Comrade Edna Hearn chaired the executive meeting of the Legion held on Monday. President Comrade Ross Carran was in Toronto on business.

Chairmen of the various committees gave favourable reports.

Improvement and decorating are being planned.

The sports program is interesting, with tournaments in bridge, euchre, horseshoes etc., being arranged.

The first general meeting of Branch 280 will be held Friday, Sept. 16, at 8:00 p.m. It is hoped that all members will try to attend.

This Sunday, at 2:00 P.M., a ball game will take place on the public school grounds between Branch 280 and the Town Council. All are invited to attend.

Following are sports dates and meetings in the near future for the Branch:

Inter-sports meeting at Picton, last Friday of each month; open euchre tournament, Oct. 1 at Cobourg; open cribbage tournament, Oct. 8, at Cobourg; district sports meeting, Oct. 22; zone sports meeting, Nov. 19; dance bands booked for Saturday night dances, Country Dancings, Oct. 8; The Sunshines, Oct. 15.

Further information will be given in the next Legion news.

The executive hope that all members will do their utmost to attend the meetings and the activities of the Branch for the coming season.

A note of interest, some of the general public think that the only activities the Legion members are involved in are at the (bar). It has been published for general information that 25% of all Army and Air Force Cadet Corps in Canada are sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion, also a number of branches, including Deseronto Branch 280, sponsor the Sea Cadet Corps and have Navy League Committees from the Legion.

Fair weather

The weatherman co-operated with "fair" weather for the three days of the Prince Edward County Fair held in Picton last weekend. Large crowds were in attendance on all three days.

"There were more entries, more exhibitors and most classes were up," according to A. McCormack, secretary treasurer.

It had been feared that due to extremes in the weather during July and August, fruit and vegetable displays would suffer.

Artist of the year award was won by Cornelius Reyn of RR 2, Ameliasburg, who had entered six paintings. There were over 40 entries this year.

Rebecca Pulver, 19, of Ameliasburg, was named Dairy Princess and crowned by the outgoing princess Linda Hamilton.

Two deaths marred the opening of the fair. Mrs. Bert Walters of Bloomfield suffered a heart attack and so did John Hall of Oakville, owner of Happyland Shows operating on the midway.

Deseronto library notes

Deseronto Library, with the much appreciated assistance of Chris Moore, will be having a story hour for the "little ones" from 10 - 11 a.m. every Friday morning commencing Sept. 23, 1977. Mothers of the children are welcome.

Do not miss the current art exhibition at Corby Public Gallery in Belleville. This exhibition reveals the skills of eighteen area artists from Sept 8th to 30th. A number of crafts, as well as paintings, are represented.

Hunters take note. In the library lobby is a summary of the 1977 Hunting Regulations with informations concerning licenses and limits etc. Also in the lobby there is information about area theatre, education and library activities.

SKILLET-GRILLED SANDWICHES

2 slices bread
1 slice cheese
2 slices tomato salt, pepper, mustard, mayonnaise butter or margarine or vegetable oil

Make a sandwich with bread, cheese, tomato slices. Add seasoning to taste. Brown on both sides in hot butter in a skillet.

Variations:

Spread bread with devilled ham, then add tomatoes and cheese.

Or add tuna fish, slices of cooked ham, salami, chicken, bacon or other meat.

Or, instead of tomatoes, use cooked asparagus or green beans or raw sliced radishes or onions.

RYE WHISKEY DROP COOKIES

1 cup shortening
3/4 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 3/4 cup pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice
3 cups pecans
1 pound red cherries
1 pound green cherries
1 pound seedless raisins
1/2 cup flour
1 cup rye whiskey

Cream together shortening, sugar, eggs.

Combine fruit and nuts with 1/2 cup flour. Add fruit to creamed mixture. Add whiskey and sifted dry ingredients to batter alternately. Drop by teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake 375 for 10 minutes. Makes 6 to 7 dozen cookies.

JELLIED SALMON LOAF

1 package lemon jello
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cold water
3 tablespoons vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
drained horseradish
1 cup salmon drained
1 cup green beans
1 cup diced cooked carrots

Dissolve jello in boiling water. Add cold water, salt and vinegar. Pour a small amount in bottom of mould.

When partially set, put in a thin layer of horseradish, then a layer of salmon, another layer of horseradish, another layer of jello.

When slightly thickened, add green beans, and a layer of jello. When firm, add carrots and the rest of the jello. Chill two hours or longer. Serves six.

APPETIZERS AND SOUPS

Here are some tricks in making appetizers and soups.

1. To add flavour and food value to home made soups, use onion skins, celery tips and roots, and leave skin on carrots.

Use water drained from this. Add to your soup instead of plain water.

2. Pack boiled rice in custard cups, unmold in each soup dish and pour in tomato, vegetable or chicken soup to make a whole meal.

3. To add a rich colour and excellent flavor to meat soups, melt a teaspoon of granulated sugar until browned in the soup kettle before putting in the meat.

4. Add a chopped apple to season vegetable soup.

RECIPE FOR A HOME

To 1/2 cup of friendship
Add a cup of thoughtfulness
Cream together with a pinch of powdered tenderness. Very lightly beat in a bowl of faith, one of hope, and one of charity.
Be sure to add a spoonful each of gaiety that sings, and also the ability to laugh at little things.
Moisten with the sudden tear of heart-felt sympathy.

Bake in a good-natured pan and serve repeatedly.

the recommended route, inquiry hearings are scheduled. This is what is now happening in Belleville. Fifty-five of the some 286 property owners have requested hearings.

Nineteen of the applications to be heard at the Belleville inquiries have to do with Hydro taking over full ownership instead of merely granting easements. Sometimes owners request this if a piece of property would be theoretically "severed" by the overhead lines and the necessary towers to carry them. But such a severance might cause problems to municipal planners... for example if a strip of property is left which might only be used for small residential lots in an area where such severance would not, ordinarily, be allowed.

The 8 Belleville hearings are expected, hopefully, Mr. Laschinger says to be concluded this week. David Vine, a Toronto lawyer, is inquiry officer. He takes notes, asks questions, writes a report and sends it to the Minister of Energy, Prince Edward Lennox's own MPP James Taylor. Mr. Taylor has 90 days in which to make a decision about each of the applications... to approve, disapprove, or approve with modifications. Once a decision is made, Hydro has to go ahead.

These hearings have nothing to do with compensation. Purpose of the hearings is to determine whether the taking of the required land is fair, sound and reasonably necessary in the achievement of Hydro's objectives.

Following the hearings and a Government decision, property negotiations begin with landowners.

Press people at Monday's conference had some difficulty in keeping up to the chronological timing of the various procedures. Mr. Laschinger is a fast talker and, at one point, the representative of the Trentonian remarked, "This doesn't seem to be running on all cylinders". Mr. Laschinger backed tracked and clarified the time schedule

In establishing land values, the owner has a choice, he said. He can elect one of three dates on which the value can be determined... the date when he is served with notice of expropriation, the date on which the expropriation is registered on the plan, or the date when he is served with notice of expropriation.

The offer for compensation must give full compensation for property value taken and must give immediate payment of 100% of market value without prejudice of the owner's right to go after more through arbitration. For example, the cost of moving to a new home.

If you go for arbitration, it won't be speedy. Six months was the minimum cited to be heard. But, at least, you'd have the 100% market value cash in your pocket!

SOPHIASBURGH'S PROPOSED BY-LAW

Group wants industrial zoning changes

Sophiasburgh's proposed by-law (1056), restricting areas to be zoned for residential, commercial, agricultural and other uses, is causing a lot of controversy in the township.

The opposition to the by-law, as it now stands, was sparked by conflicting rumours concerning the sale of the factory, formerly leased to Edgewater Cannery, adjacent to county road 15.

When the "sold" sign went up on the property, the questions were who had bought it and what was it going to be used for.

"Under the new by-law, the property is zoned Industrial (M2), a category which would allow, among other things, a trucking terminal," says Ken Needham, Northport Road.

From what he has been able to find out about the buyer, he says, "It is evident that the company does do long-distance trucking of steel. And, he points out that the physical limitation of the site, relative to the small size, and the fact of entry and exit being confined in a rock-cut, would be dangerous and inappropriate."

"To get a flat-bed truck out, they'd have to block the road," he said.

He feels the area should be re-zoned as Industrial (M1).

"The place has been used for warehousing for some years," he said, "and warehousing would be allowed under M1."

He, and the more than 40 people who have signed a petition requesting the change of zoning, are not trying to keep job-producing industries out of the township, they want them in a more appropriate place.

"The glaring fault in this by-law," the petition says in part, "is that no provision is made for industry to locate."

7 miles . . . on four feet

Elsewhere in this issue, is a story about helping senior citizens with transportation problems.

But two senior citizens of Deseronto decided to make a seven-mile trip on their own two feet, one day last week.

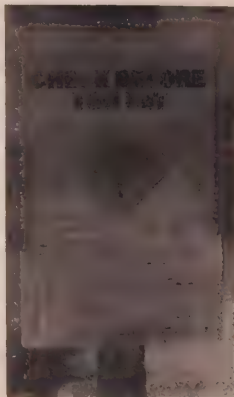

Mrs. Helen Tunnicliffe, 74, of Edmond Street, and Mrs. Maude Cochran, who is over 80, walked to Napanee, had lunch, shopped and then took the bus home again.

"We planned it quite a while," Mrs. Tunnicliffe said. "I had made the trip on foot about 53 years ago. I can't remember how long it took then. But, this time, it took two hours and 55 minutes. And we didn't sit down once."

"Several people stopped to see if we wanted a ride, but we told them no."

One problem they had, she said, was where there was a bull fenced near the road without a tether. They were a little nervous but Mrs. Eleanor Lindsay of Deseronto happened to be driving past and she kept her car between them and the bull.

Whatever's causing the pollution in the Bay of Quinte, here's sure proof that the pollution is there. The above sign strikes a sour note in the otherwise beautiful view of the water from Northport's Centennial Park. The sign just went up last week . . . too late to check the fishing or the appetites of the summer tourists. Thank you, Ontario, for at least warning "us natives".

Silo death warning

Silo gases are believed to be the cause of three fatalities on a farm near Gananoque last week. Two brothers, Edward and Eldon Conner, ages 31 and 33 respectively, were found alongside William Carr, 47, inside a vertical silo that they had just recently filled.

Harold Morphy, safety consultant with the Farm Safety Association, who investigated the fatalities for the Association believes there was little doubt that the reason for the deaths was because of silo gases. Mr. Morphy suggested that the gas involved was nitrogen dioxide. This particular gas is formed because of a complex chemical reaction that takes place almost immediately after a silo is filled.

Mr. Morphy said, "Silo gases are a real threat to farmers today. Nitrogen dioxide can form within hours of filling a silo and may be present for up to two weeks after filling."

Mr. Morphy suggested that farmers should not let anyone near a silo after it is filled. Because the gas is heavier than air, all silo chute doors should be closed to prevent it from contaminating farm areas.

In the event that anyone must enter a silo before two weeks have elapsed, they should ventilate the silo with the silo blower, and use a self-contained breathing apparatus. He also warns that using a life-line connected to another person outside the silo is compulsory.

The above picture was taken at noon hour in front of the Queen Elizabeth School on Barker Street in Picton. Traffic on the street, particularly at times when youngsters are coming and going to school, is causing concern among parents and school officials.

Traffic near school causes concern

Parents and school officials are voicing their concern for the safety of the children who have to cross Barker Street, in front of Picton's Queen Elizabeth School, several times a day.

One day, recently, just before school closing in the afternoon, a car came down the street in front of the school, hit one parked car and set off a chain reaction involving several other parked cars. One teenage passenger sustained multiple cuts and injuries; three cars were completely write-offs.

The Scanner has received a letter from a very concerned parent who says, "I'm sure that I am only one of many parents sick with relief that the terrible car pile-up did not happen half an hour later when all the young children would have been streaming out of school." But, the writer points out, "I find that the half-hour after the students are let out is one of the worst times in the day for speeding traffic. If appeals to conscience and reason won't do the job, I for one would appreciate some extra police vigilance at this time of day. Let's get the younger children home safely from school so that they too will have their chance to attend high school some day."

Other people are concerned about the situation too. Principal of the school submitted a letter to the board about speeding vehicles in the school zone. Trustees have passed a motion seeking greater enforcement of speed limits in the school area and traffic bumps, or similar speed deterrents have been proposed.

On the day the accompanying picture was taken, Picton Police were stationed near the Collegiate. The Scanner noticed two teenagers, out of sight of the police car, playing chicken and speeding and passing without signalling.

Editorial

The story on the front page, concerning the controversy about the zoning by-law in Sophiasburg Township, points up, once again, the need for an active interest, on the part of every individual, in government activities of every level... federal, provincial and municipal.

Questioning of proposals... or decisions... made by elected representatives is not, necessarily, critical or obstructive.

If your local council is doing a good job, it will welcome questions and the opportunity to clear up some point which is worrying a number of ratepayers.

How the local school board spends your money... what plans the council has for your locality... how the actions of your community representatives fit into the total environmental and economic picture... is your responsibility, not someone else's.

The people petitioning for a change in zoning for an industrial site are making a good point when they suggest an alternative area available for industrial development in the township.

By presenting their brief to council they are providing their township representatives with useful "in-put" which can help them in coming to final zoning decisions.

Bird's Eye View

by Shelly S. Greenbush

Reckon that feller from Hydro must of gotten his fingers slipped last week for coming out and saying that what the public think about Hydro's doings don't make no difference. Got to give him credit for being honest anyways. We got that figured out years ago, don't make no difference at all what anybody thinks, an outfit as big as Hydro is going ter do just what they wants and nothing will stop em. Don't know about his here nuclear power bit though. It's all them radioactive wastes as has got me bothered. Seems they ain't very nice stuff, and they need a lot of baby sitting for a long time. Now when you stop and look at all the stuff we keep finding that's been lost for hundreds of years, when it was supposed to have been took care of real good, it makes you wonder. Who's to say that these here waste deposits won't get lost in a hundred years or so, and do the poor feller what finds them no end of a mischief. Then too, from what I can figure out, and that might not be too much where nuclears is concerned, the scientific fellers is busy working on some new sort of plant that won't make no radio-active junk to be got rid of. At the rate those boys move, could well be that by the time we've spent millions on building nuclear plants, they'll all be out of date on account of them having figured out how to build clean ones.

Reckon it ain't too much use my worrying anyways, nobody's saying nothing too clear. Hydro says one thing and our baby James says another. Maybe the left hand don't know what the right hand's doing, or maybe they ain't saying it if they do. Me and Elma went to Belleville Fair and seen them rabbits there. Now I figger that rabbit makes real good eating, and I been trying to talk her into getting a few. She's gone and got all soft on me and says she don't think she could eat one of them nice soft bunnies. Soft my eye - they got teeth and claws fit to rip you open - and they sure eat good. I figger I might keep working at that one, got to keep life interesting in my old age.

Taylor says power planning under study

The Quinte Scanner of Aug. 31, carried an editorial expressing concern over the exemption of the Darlington Nuclear Generating Station from public scrutiny of its environmental impact. The editorial also expressed the concern that the Lennox Generating Plant might sometime expand and be nuclear.

In the Scanner's September 14 issue, there was a report of a statement from Ontario Hydro's eastern region public relations officer that "there will be some expansion of the facilities of the Lennox generating station and they could be nuclear". The Scanner has now received the following news release from Ontario's Energy Minister James Taylor. MPP for Prince Edward-Lennox, dated September 13.

"Ontario Hydro is a public utility providing an essential ingredient to our quality of life and to the economy on which all of our livelihoods depend. You cannot curtail Hydro operations without curbing home comforts and job opportunities in this Province."

Ontario Energy Minister and Prince Edward-Lennox MPP James Taylor said today.

Responding to recent press comment concerning Lennox and Darlington Generating Stations, Mr. Taylor observed "I think the public message to our Government has been loud and clear for two generations--we want an adequate supply of electrical power without damage to the environment or peril to people. The Government has heeded all parts of that message and as Minister of Energy, I can assure we will continue to meet power needs while remaining vigilant of environmental and safety factors."

Citing coal miners' deaths, accidental electrocutions, oil and gas explosions, and the toll of highway accidents, the Prince Edward-Lennox MPP pointed out that "There is no absolutely safe way of tapping our natural resources for energy. But Ontario Hydro's nuclear stations are the safest, least polluting and most economical means of providing electricity yet developed."

"However," he said, "we will still depend on oil, gas and coal-fired generating stations as well as on water power to help meet our electrical power requirements for decades to come. While developing alternative energy resources, we must plan the continuing use of existing proven energy resources. At the same time we must harness all energy resources to minimize environmental impact and assure public safety."

Lennox Generating Station is "just one of several" Hydro sites in Ontario with sufficient acreage for ultimate expansion if electrical demands require. The Prince Edward-Lennox MPP reiterated his statement of last spring that Lennox oil-fired plant cannot be converted to burn uranium. The Government has been asked to consider any plan or proposal to expand Lennox present generating plant nor consider a second plant on the site, he said. More over, "the whole question of Ontario Hydro's power planning for the period after 1985 is now being studied -- with the most comprehensive public participation -- by the Porter Commission."

Darlington nuclear power station, needed by 1985, was the last Hydro project to be launched without consideration of the Porter Commission's findings which will likely be received by the Government next spring. Darling, he said, had been on the drawing board for half a dozen years before the Government passed the Environmental Assessment Act last year. Consequently, the Environmental Assessment Act did not apply to Darlington nor any other Hydro stations built or under construction to date.

Nonetheless, the Darlington project had been exposed to the fullest public participation program, James Taylor said. Both Newcastle and Durham Regions, the municipalities concerned, had not only reviewed all aspects of the Darlington project, these two municipalities had completely concurred with its exemption from an Environmental Assessment hearing.

However, the Minister emphasized that technical design and standards for Darlington Generating Station will meet all criteria of the Environmental Protection Act, the Water Resources Act, Ministry of Natural Resources requirements, and the Atomic Energy Control Board Act. Under the latter, the federal atomic control agency must approve each stage of construction.

Turning to the matter of a public opinion study undertaken in the municipalities around Lennox Generating Station, Mr. Taylor confirmed that public opinion poll-takers had indeed been engaged by Ontario Hydro to get citizen reaction throughout Ontario. "On the one hand government and government agencies are criticized for losing touch with public opinion. But when Hydro takes steps to learn public opinion it's accused of brainwashing."

"I have no idea what conversation took place between Councillor Mary Kaiser and the public opinion poll-taker but judging by the press comment I think the misunderstood the intention of the poll-taking."

Enumerating is hard work

Counting heads for the annual municipal enumeration which was finished on Monday, can be a hard job or a relatively easy one, depending on where you live.

"In a place like Belleville, all the names may be in one block," said Margaret Jackson, one of Deseronto's two enumerators. "But here there's a lot of walking, and some dirt driving, to do. It's spread out."

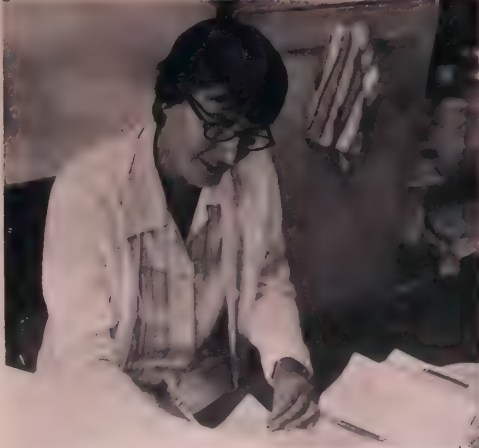

For example, one on her list was a house a mile up a road.

Reta Baldwin, enumerator from Northport, found her rural area often meant several calls to the same farm. Enumerating in her own community of Northport could be done on foot but this was only a small part of the area she covered...the rest of it by car.

Enumerators checked names, ages, property status, school support and residency of all members of the household.

The information is required in determining the allocation of education property taxes between public and separate schools, the preparation of jurors' lists and population information needed for other municipal programs.

Enumerators in the country get 27 cents a name. In town it's 14 cents a name.

There's more to enumerating than just talking to people. Margaret Jackson, one of Deseronto's two enumerators, found that there was a lot of paper work too...checking through forms and lining up calls for the next day.

Mrs. Jackson suggested that maybe people in places like Deseronto should get more than city enumerators...perhaps somewhere between the 14 and the 27 cents.

One stop on her route did cover a fair number at once. There were 44 in the senior citizen apartments where enumeration was done for the first time.

Reta Baldwin also commented on the rate of pay, pointing out that it was not enough for the amount of travelling that had to be done. She thought it might be difficult to find people willing to do it again.

Survey for PE seniors

A project, with the final objective of assisting senior citizens to continue to live in their homes, is being undertaken in Prince Edward County.

A county-wide survey will be taken of all senior citizens to find out their individual needs...do they need help with transportation?...snow shovelling?...or other problems?

Back last January, funds were made available by the Provincial Government to help any volunteer group or charitable institution that wanted to sponsor a service to senior citizens in their own homes.

A Prince Edward County Community Core for Senior Citizens Committee has been set up and a co-ordinator will be hired to handle the survey. Senior Citizens groups will each have two representatives on the committee, groups such as service clubs have one representative, and the VON, public health service and similar units are also represented.

Sam Clark, Northport Road, who is on the committee, said, "We will eventually organize so everyone unable to do a particular job for themselves will be assisted by a local young person and the committee will pay with funds received from the Ministry."

Cathie Cooke, with the Ministry of Community and Social Services in Belleville, said funding is for two years... "It is being tested as an alternative to having senior citizens having to leave their own homes."

Deseronto hunters

Would-be hunters in Deseronto are going to have a chance to learn the proper way to handle guns.

A Hunter Training Course, limited to people who will be at least 16 years old by January 1, 1978, starts Wednesday night, at the Deseronto Fire Hall. All equipment will be supplied.

The course provides eight hours of instruction...two hours on each of the following nights, this Wednesday and Thursday, and Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Ralph Lawlor is the instructor and Deseronto Police Chief Carl Beattie will be lending a hand.

As Bob Williams, of RR 2, Pictou, pointed out, "It's the degree of industry in this site that we object to."

The brief will be presented to Sophiasburgh Council at its meeting in Demorestville, September 26, at 7:30 P.M.

UNSETTLING

If the early pioneers had had as much trouble settling on a route along what is now Highway 33 as their descendants, and others, are having settling the alternate route to 33 today, there might never have been any settlements in the area to argue now.

The latest development is this... Lennox and Addington County Council has rejected a request by the Canadian Freehold Properties, the real estate arm of Canadian Industries Ltd., to have the proposed alternative route to 33 moved north. Council decided the southern route is still the best for the purpose of relieving overcrowded and hazardous Highway 33.

The route, already approved by Emstovon, South Fredericksburgh and Bath begins at Lennox and Addington County Road 8 and goes east, north of Lennox Generating Station, Canada Cement La Forge and Millhaven Institutions. It dips south at Urban Transportation Development Corporation property and on into Frontenac County.

WHAT WE CAN AFFORD

The three top administrators, employed by the Lennox and Addington County Board of Education are going to have to wait for a raise.

A motion to raise the Director of Education's salary from $40,500 to $42,930; the superintendent of schools from $35,500 to $37,360, and the business administrator from $33,500 to $35,510, was defeated by a tie vote and referred back to committee.

Trustee R. McDannold, North Fredericksburgh, cited decreasing enrolment figures which showed a loss of grants totalling $345,692.

"I'm not suggesting that we ignore the value of the positions," he said. "We must consider what we can afford... if our employees are not satisfied with the salary level we set as a board, they are free to go elsewhere."

An old-fashioned idea, perhaps, but certainly commendable.

BEHIND OPEN DOORS

If you've been wondering what goes on behind the doors of the Educetree in Wellington, headquarters for the Prince Edward County Board of Education, here's your chance to find out.

They're holding open house on Sept. 26. Principals and board members will be on hand in the afternoon to answer questions and the evening's board meeting will also be open to the public.

INSIDE STORY

Deseronto Police have reported that someone took $1,200 worth of inside doors from new homes on Dundas Street.

Sixteen were taken from one house.

DISSOLVED

At the request of the municipalities, the Central Prince Edward Planning Area has been dissolved. Bloomfield, Picton and the Township of Hollowell will remain as part of the County of Prince Edward Planning Area.

SLOW DOWN AND SEE

The Ministry of Transportation and Communications has turned down a request from members of Lennox and Addington County Council, living north of Highway 7, for an increase in the speed limit on that highway.

They had asked for the change because they felt the slower limit kept people off the highway, taking away from the tourist trade.

Wouldn't you think that keeping tourists slowed down a little so they can see the beautiful scenery and what the communities have to offer would be much more likely to increase the tourist trade?

MORE GRANTS

Winter grants of $681 each have been approved for two Experience '77 programs in Ameliasburg Township... Rosmore Playground and Ameliasburg tennis instruction program.

Grant has also been made to the Tyendinaga Baseball League—$511 to assist with the purchase of baseball equipment.

And... the Ministry of Natural Resources will be making grants available again this year for assisting local trail clubs in providing outdoor recreation opportunities during the winter months. Groups are advised to contact the Ministry by Oct. 1.

SAVING WITH COLOUR

What do you do with the Quinte Scanner... after you've finished with it?

Here's a colourful suggestion which will help cut down on energy consumption (if you have a fireplace or open stove) and will help cut down on Christmas present costs if your friends have a place to burn things.

One of our readers, Marion Cairns of Odessa, has sent us this "recipe" for Yule Logs.

To make sparkling "joy logs" save all old newspapers and any other absorbent paper, also coloured sections. Roll them to form logs about 16 inches long, tie with heavy twine, not too tightly, and soak in the following solution:

Take four pounds of blue stone (blue vitriol or sulphate of copper) and three pounds of rock salt, and dissolve thoroughly in one gallon of water, using the same proportions for as much as needed.

Soak the "logs" for three or four weeks in this solution, turning end for end frequently. As the solution will corrode metal, the soaking should be done in a wooden vessel, with wooden hoops or in a stone crack. It should be handled with gloves as it will stain the hands or clothing. It is an internal poison and should be kept away from children and animals.

Do not place too many papers in a roll, as they swell.

During the early autumn is the best time to make "joy logs" as they have a better chance to dry. Unless thoroughly dry, they are of no use.

Cheese... from water?

By DAVE BURD

Those in the cheesemaking business come up against some pretty crazy questions from baffled onlookers, delving into the mysteries of the art, according to manager Bill Gibson of the Black River Cheese Factory at Black Creek.

The all-time winner during Bill's 20 years of experience came from a fellow who, gazing at a water-holding tank, located among several pieces of cheesemaking apparatus in the factory, innocently asked, "Do you make cheese from water?"

During the heyday of cheesemaking in Prince Edward County, there were over 20 factories in operation. Today, there is only one other producing cheese factory besides Black River... the Ben Gill Factory on County Road 4, near Highway 14.

The amount of cheese produced at Black River is limited by the milk quotas assigned to Bill by the Ontario Milk Marketing Board. During the busy summer months, a higher percentage of the yearly quota, provided by 32 local dairy farmers, is allowed to the factory.

When the quota system was introduced in 1970, five or six factories were still going. Two of these closed almost immediately.

Black River Factory has been in operation for 76 years. It is owned by some 50 to 60 shareholders.

Between 20 and 25% of the cheese produced there today is sold at the factory's attached outlet, run by Ben's wife, Lois.

On the day that the Scanner toured the factory, Ben and his two helpers, Wayne Wateron and Phil Insley, were preparing two large vats of freshly-made curd for pressing into blocks which, when cured, become cheddar cheese.

Milk destined to become cheese is shipped to the plant and pumped into two large holding tanks which together hold 70,000 pounds of milk. It then passes through a clarifier which removes sediment and purifies the milk before it enters the pasteurizer.

The milk leaves the pasteurizer at a temperature of 86 degrees F. and enters two vats (like large troughs) contained in the next room. At this point, culture is added to the milk.

Culture consists of bacteria developed from selected strains of lactic acid and makes up two per cent of the mixture now contained in the vats.

The acidity of the milk has been increased to about 18%.

If the cheese is to be coloured, special food colouring is added to the milk. Two ounces of colouring per 1000 pounds of milk are sufficient to give the cheese its distinctive orangish-yellow hue.

Rennet is the ingredient used to thicken the cheese. Derived from calves' stomach it requires three ounces of rennet per 1000 pounds of milk to achieve the desired consistency.

Four bladed paddle attachments are connected to revolving motors, called agitators, which travel up and down the length of the vats to mix the ingredients together. After 15 minutes, the milk is sufficiently thickened to be cut by curd knives which resemble wire mesh grills with handles.

The "milk" is now cut into quarter-inch cubes which are further agitated to separate the curds or solid portion from the whey or watery portion of the milk.

Next, over a period of 45 minutes, the curd is "cooked" with steam which raises the temperature from 86 degrees to 102 degrees F.

After agitating for a further half hour, the curd is pushed to one end of the vats and the whey is drained.

The curd is now piled up on both sides of the vat, so that an alley runs down the centre of each vat. Over the course of the next two hours, the curd is turned about six times and takes on the appearance of long slabs of baker's dough.

The slabs are fed through a curd mill to produce the familiar shaped curds that appear in the store. Salt is added at this point to flavour and preserve the cheese.

After weighing each portion of the curd, it is packed into hoops or forms and pressed overnight at a pressure of 110 pounds.

When the cheese is removed from the forms, it is heat-wrapped in a layer of paracord (like waxed paper) and one of brown paper, weighed and boxed. On each box is stamped the date, factory number and plant number as well as the Black River wrapper. Each box varies in weight between 42 and 44 pounds.

These blocks are cured in a "cool" room at a constant temperature of 58 degrees Fahrenheit for 21 days before being graded. Stepping into this room is a welcome contrast from the hot, humid atmosphere of the vat room.

Four to five hundred blocks of cheese are shipped to Belleville every ten days or so where the cheese is sold at an auction operated by the Milk Marketing Board.

"After this it's hard to say where the cheese ends up," says Bill, "since the label is changed. Cheese buyers at the auctions are only middle men who in turn sell the cheese to larger concerns."

Only a few local stores including the Hi Way Food Market and the County Cupboard, sell Black River cheese.

Kamal Rostom

In my short story "The Dishes Are Still in the Sink" published last summer in the Canadian Fiction Magazine, the protagonist thought in the following terms: "It would be better to go out, once the repair man had left. But where to go? Picton was a very small town. There was nowhere to go. He had suffered in silence in this tiny town. No friends at all. No entertainment. Even the one Picton theatre was closed because of lack of movie goes. Whenever you wanted to go to a movie or a play you went elsewhere. The Main Street and that is all. Two or three snack bars or restaurants and you cannot stay in one of them, except for a few minutes and then you are expected to leave. He remembered the Gezira Sporting Club in Cairo where he used to go and stay for hours on end, reading or writing or just swimming in the swimming pool in El Lido. He remembered the beautiful terrace of the Semiramis Hotel that overlooked the River Nile, and where he used to read or write too. He even remembered Cafe Riche in downtown Cairo where groups of literary writers, old and young, gather around the tables discussing the latest movements in literature and art. Nothing similar could be found in Picton. And he missed all this."

That is what I wrote two years ago about the social life in Picton, and if I were asked today to express my opinion about Picton, I would say the same things, and even more. This depressing state of affairs reflects on my feelings and behaviour, to the extent that I take it for granted that there is no hope of getting the people together in a club or even in a house where we can pass our time in something more useful and interesting than playing bridge or drinking.

It seems to me that it is a major characteristic of the Pictonian society, far when I complained of it to some friends (also newcomers to Picton) they responded "It took us three years to be accepted by the Pictonians - and we are Canadians." That is very sad, and for this reason I'll review the chapters of Dr. William Glasser's book "The Identity Society" which deal with loneliness.

Glasser states that there is an intimate relationship between loneliness and pain, and that our new society is fraught with loneliness and failure. One-quarter of all medical prescriptions are for tranquilizers or pain relieving drugs. Newspapers carry advertisements urging lonely people to call the Help Line, to join groups devoted to getting lonely people together or to patronize dating services. Involvement and the need for it has been built into our nervous system for the last half million years. We always need involvement and we always feel pain when we have none. The pain warns us to seek involvement with others. Many people create companions in the form of backache, stomachache or migraine headaches and become involved with these rather than admitting to an overwhelming and pervasive sense of loneliness. It seems we can live more comfortably with a painful but discreet companion than with loneliness.

Pain resulting from loneliness drives failing people to use alcohol and narcotics. But the drugs negate the purpose of the pain. "They allow us to sit on the hot stove and not feel the pain even when we know we are being burned." When the effects of the drugs wear off, failing people quickly take more to relieve the pain temporarily. Thus we move in a vicious circle.

I feel that there is a considerable amount of loneliness in our community and that we don't exert enough effort to get people together. My first articles in the Scanner were a drop in the pail in this respect. I called for establishing a writers' club for eliminating loneliness. It is not coincidence that the Toronto Star runs some ads for those who seek companions and want to overcome their loneliness. The Scanner could do the same. And it is to be hoped that other organizations in the town would think positively about the matter and develop something like the Help Line to assist people to overcome the pain resulting from their loneliness.

PECI anniversary plans

The Prince Edward Collegiate Institute is planning big festivities to mark the silver anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone, next May.

A public meeting will be held on Thursday, September 22, at 8 P.M. in Room 141 at PEI to discuss these plans and to appoint committees of volunteers to help organize the events. Past and present staff and students are invited.

and, later, a dance and a reunion. Wintario funds are being sought to help support the work of the committee.

Tribute to a sailing man

BY DAVE TAYLOR

A man died last week.

Yes, Angus Mowat died - he didn't "pass away" or "enter into rest" as undertakers, who now call themselves "funeral directors" would have it.

He died, because dying is part of living and above all else, Angus lived. He lived fully and honestly, asking only for honesty from those around him. He had no time for "politicians" who curry favours and buy friends but for those in honest need he was always there to help as best he could.

Angus loved most a story of the high and mighty caught with pie on their faces but he would laugh as heartily about himself as he would at others.

It was this great sense of humour and his tremendous, infectious vitality that made him the youngest old man around.

Yes, a man died last week but his shadow will long sail over the Quinte waters that he loved so well.

Rezoning petition denied

"We missed the boat this time. How can we prevent this in future?"

This comment from the floor, at last night's meeting of Schomburgh Township Council, during the discussion on a petition requesting a less commercial zoning for a waterfront property, summed up the way petitioners felt when rezoning was turned down, 100%, by council decision.

Some 40 people had signed the petition, presented to council, for a change in zoning from Industrial M2 to M1 for the site of the former Edge-water Canning Factory adjacent to county road 15.

The property has been sold to Fern Cote of Atlantic Vehicle Fabricators and Fern Cote Development Limited and Mr. Cote has already begun work on the site, which is to be used as a terminal for trucking steel from Hamilton to Montreal and for manufacture of truck trailers.

"My advice to council is that the petition is too late," said Jack Ward, solicitor for the township. "The county plan was underway four or five years ago and each municipality has to proceed with a land-use by-law if there is not one already."

"In this township, the land-use by-law was passed in June of this year. A copy of the by-law was distributed to all ratepayers and the date for objections was July 15. So, in my opinion, the zoning stands and, if any attempts are made to change the zoning, it would be an act of bad faith," Mr. Ward said.

The by-law still has to be approved by the Ontario Municipal Board before it is effective.

The petition, spearheaded by Ken Needham, who lives near the property

Council protests own by law

The Town of Deseronto has been forced, by circumstances, to pass a by-law setting high water rates for the town... but not without protest.

At Monday night's meeting of Council, the by-law was passed and, at the same meeting, council agreed to file a protest and request a hearing from the Ontario Municipal Board into the high costs of water.

How did this come about?

Deseronto entered into an agreement with the Ministry of Environment for the supplying of water to the municipality.

As previously reported in the Scanner, the estimated cost of the new water purification plant and the new pump house has almost tripled over the past couple of years. The Ontario Government subsidizes 75% of the cost and Deseronto has to pay the other 25%... in this case, $880,000.

As a consequence of entering into the agreement, Deseronto had to pass a by-law setting water rates high enough to cover the new cost.

Under the new by-law, a non-commercial user with the basic number of four fixtures (kitchen sink and three-piece bath) will pay $90 for the first year, plus $6.60 for each additional fixture. This rate rises yearly for five years and, by the fifth year, the basic would be $161 plus $11.75 for each additional fixture. A metered commercial or industrial user will be charged $115.98 per 1,000 gallons the first year with gradual increases up to $204.36 by the fifth year.

The protest filed by the town, requesting a hearing, points out that residents of Deseronto, in 1972, clearly indicated they were not willing to pay $150 per household a year for a new water supply system and the Ministry of Environment failed to seek input from Deseronto into the escalating costs of this project prior to completion.

Sewers also came up for discussion at the council meeting. The Ministry of the Environment has turned down a request to finance the construction of a sewer main extension on Main Street to service new housing.

The refusal "hamper progress", Councillor Roger Cole said. "We stand to lose considerably."

His disappointment was supported by Bernie Johnston, who added that "We have no big industry here and this would be a way to bring more money to the municipality by bringing

The new NO PARKING HERE TO CORNER sign at Prince and Main Streets, about three feet from the corner, doesn't cover much territory. But others, limiting parking to two hours, will. Some of the signs which will line Main Street from Prince to Mill Street are already in place and Deseronto Police were giving out warning notices to over-parked motorists on Tuesday morning.

Editorial

It is a proven fact that when police are visibly stationed at a spot where accidents have been happening too frequently, the number of accidents takes a dramatic drop.

One of the suggestions made by the Select Committee on Highway Safety was that, to manipulate driver behaviour effectively, the police must in addition to apprehending violators, be a visible presence on the road, focusing their efforts on selected accident-prone locations.

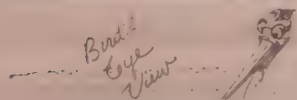

Much more important in the long run, to our way of thinking, is to find out why drivers do not behave when the police are not in evidence.

Are we doing such a bad job of training drivers... of setting examples... of failing to instill in all citizens their community responsibility... that they feel there is no shame in doing something illegal as long as they don't get caught?

Let's take a look at the statistics. In Ontario in one year I, 511 people were killed and another 83,736 were injured. Road accidents are the fourth leading killer in the Province. They are the leading cause of death of younger people. Forty-six percent of the victims in 1967 were under 25.

And then let's all decide to make a good effort to police our own actions... to help build the wheel of justice.

Sure has been a bass awkward year for the weather. First off it were dryer than a bean fart, now she's running wetter than a baby's behind.

Tried to disc up a hill field and right soon I were pulling a mud roller instead of a disc - thought the poor old Farm BN were going ter pop a gasket or sink herself clear out of sight - or both.

They must of given them Jamaican workers time off to stroll down street. I reckon they must leave a fair bit of their wages in these ports. With that first cold snap they was soon wrapped up in new warm duds. Be interesting the stories they tell when they gets back home.

Want to get down to the plowing match but Elma says I've got to get a new pair of rubber boots to do the rounds of the exhibits. Weren't no way she were going to let me wear my old barn boots. "There is mud, Orville," she says, "and then there is mud. You know, that mud that makes your boots ain't mud." Reckon that feller on the radio must be right - there should oughter be a lot of farmers out to the meet, seeing as they can't do nothing at home.

Even heard the CBC commenting on the loss of farm crops because of the wet weather in Ontario - things is sure looking up when they admit that us farmers exist at all.

I've been trying to see that new farm programme on the TV but I ain't managed it yet. I guess someone must of listened to the complaints about what a rotten job the CBC were doing fer farmers. It shows all over - just listening to the weather men during that drought were enough to make me choke on my tea.

Next week I'll give you my look at the big plow in sort of a mud-slinging column.

Letter

Editor's Note: Last week's Scanner carried a press release from Ontario's Minister of Energy, James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward Lennox. The following letter has been received from George Somis, MPP for Cornwall, and the NDP's Energy Critic.

To the Editor:

The failure to provide an environmental impact study on the Darlington Nuclear Station is a black mark in the history of Ontario's energy development, and it's a pure farce for Energy Minister, James Taylor, to state that "...the Darlington project had been exposed to the fullest possible public participation program" -- Nothing could be further from the truth.

The Environmental Assessment Act is being totally ignored in this case and it is really amazing that the single most expensive project in the history of Ontario is not going to be covered by the legislation.

And when you remember that not only is this a $5,000,000,000.00 project but it is also an important, massive nuclear project, it becomes sheer folly for Messrs Kerr and Taylor to give in to the pressures from Ontario Hydro and not have an independent environmental assessment.

Does anyone really believe that or internal study done by Hydro for Hydro is really independent?

Does anybody really believe that the Legislature passed the Environmental Assessment Act to have it made a mockery of, like this?

Does anybody really believe nuclear technology has been able to overcome the serious potential dangers posed by the waste material from any nuclear generating station?

The Ontario Legislature passed an important law to protect the rights and safety of the people of Ontario but it appears that Ontario Hydro is beyond the law in this case. Maybe it's a case that if you're big and powerful enough in Ontario, you can make the law serve you when you want it to.

The excuses offered by Hydro and accepted by Mr. Kerr simply don't hold up on their own and they certainly don't justify a blanket exemption. Even if Darlington is to continue, the Minister could still order a study to be carried out because it could be done in 12-18 months and it could very possibly recommend important design modifications to ensure greater safety or it could uncover some factors or consideration that Hydro officials did not unearth in their internal preliminary study. It will take at least five years minimum to construct Darlington so it's not too late to have an immediate independent environmental assessment undertaken.

I am not against the idea of nuclear generating stations per se, but I certainly cannot tolerate wholesale exemptions for any nuclear project.

from an independent assessment, especially when it is on the scale of Darlington.

For Mr. Taylor to argue --- you cannot curtail Hydro operations without curbing home comforts and the opportunities in this province" is to fudge the issue and raise red herrings. Hydro is seemingly hell bent on a program of massive nuclear development for the future while it fails to seriously develop a meaningful, comprehensive and effective conservation program that would reduce the need for such massive outlays of funds for projects like Darlington.

The people of Ontario deserve better than this.

The Government of Ontario must reverse its decision and ensure that the law of the land is applied, not ignored, in the Darlington case.

Pensions up

Good news for old age security pensioners. The basic pension will jump $3.38 next month... from $147.05 to $150.43.

According to a news release from Health and Welfare Canada, increases in Old Age Security pensions and Guaranteed Income Supplement payments represent the sixteenth quarterly escalation based on the cost of living, as provided for in the Old Age Security Act.

And if anyone didn't know the cost of living is continually climbing, there's proof from the Federal Government... it raises.

Macauley grant

A further grant of $9,000 has been approved to enable Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority to further develop Macauley Mountain Conservation Area, Prince Edward-Lennox MPP, Hon. James Taylor reports.

Mrs. William Duggan, secretary of the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority says this grant will provide fencing, landscaping and a tree nursery in the Macauley Mountain Area. It will also provide lighting and enlargement of the skating rink, and improve the pond.

Quinte News Round Up

BLAME THE WEATHERMAN

An October drought has been easy to remember. Food shortages for farmers now they are getting rained out. Prediction were that, despite the drought, apple crops should be bumper this year and so they are. But the cold, damp weather and the heavy rains have been making harvesting difficult.

Prince Edward County has 800 to 1,000 acres of orchard land.

SPIRIT DAYS

Spirit days are being planned at the Napanee and District Secondary School this week.

What are spirit days? They are the days on which special events have been planned to raise school spirit.

Starting today there is a big assembly, tomorrow a pancake breakfast and challenging matches and, on Friday afternoon, a parade with about 20 floats prepared by students, will be followed by a football game between Napanee students and those from Quinte Secondary School. A dance, Friday night, will conclude the activities.

Another event planned at the Napanee school is a safety day, on October 6. Seven different groups, including the OPP, Napanee Police, Ontario Hydro, Napanee Fire Department, the Red Cross, St. John's Ambulance and the school safety group will be putting on displays from 11:30 in the morning until 2:00 in the afternoon, in the school parking lot.

HYDRO REBATES

Ontario Hydro has decided to rebate to bulk power users next year any excess revenue (above anti-inflation guidelines) it receives in 1977. The result is expected to curb the increase in 1978 from 9.75 per cent to about 4 per cent next year.

Hydro had originally proposed an 11 per cent increase in bulk power rates — the rates which municipal hydro systems and other large users pay — to be effective in 1978.

Minister of Energy, James Taylor, Prince Edward-Lennox MPP, referred the bulk rate increase proposal to the Ontario Energy Board for their review and recommendations, and he was advised that Hydro could achieve their objectives with an effective increase of about 4 per cent in 1978 by refunding some $108 million excess revenue from 1977. Mr. Taylor had asked the Ontario Energy Board to consider Hydro's expected excess revenues this year in making recommendations on Hydro's 1978 rates.

TOURISM DOWN

Here are a few discouraging facts from recent news reports about the tourist industry.

There was a substantial drop in the number of visitors and campers at Prince Edward County's provincial parks this year ... and ... those people who did come didn't spend much money locally. The campers brought what they needed.

Tourism Ontario, an organization for the Province's hospitality industry, claims that excessive gasoline prices are at the heart of an 18% decline in the number of U.S. automobiles entering Canada during the past four years.

Kingston's Chamber of Commerce figures, based on the number of tourist queries, showed a 5% upswing over last year's but still well below figures of previous years.

The Provincial Ministry of Tourism is sponsoring a series of seminars for tourist operators and government officials.

A series of 10 seminars, sponsored by the Ministry, will be held in Ontario. The first one is set for Kingston next month.

POOLING IDEAS

The subject of a swimming pool in Prince Edward County has been re-activated.

In 1974, a swimming pool committee was organized. For some time, the fund-raising went well and the committee has money in the bank, but not enough to cover the cost of a full size indoor pool, estimated at $750,000. Several weeks ago, Picton Reeve Larry Richardson called on County Council for support, pointing out the need for a pool and training facilities.

Since then the property and supply committee has been meeting with various groups, and is exploring the cost of a site and construction.

The Ministry of Community and Social Services, which operates the Prince Edward Heights complex for the mentally retarded, and all other interested groups, including municipal councils, are being asked to consider support for this pool.

POPULAR MAN

Today was declared a school holiday in Ernestown, to let the students go to the International Plowing Match.

Declaring of a school holiday is a rarely-used permissible act by heads of municipalities. ... in this case, Ernestown Reeve Cecil Kidd.

But all the kids will love him for it.

DEATHS

ANGUS MCGILL MOWAT, of RR 2, Picton, died Wednesday, September 21 in Kingston, after a long illness. Born in 1892, in Trenton, Mr. Mowat attended Queen's University, then joined the Canadian Army, serving with the 4th Battalion. He was wounded at Vimy Ridge in 1917.

He became a librarian, working in Belleville and Trenton, and eventually became Director of the Public Library Service for Ontario. He wrote two books; Then I'll Look Up, 1938, and Carrying Place, 1944.

Mr. Mowat was a member of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and was a Staff Officer during World War 2. He had a life-long love of boats and sailing and from 1968 to 1971, painstakingly restored the wreck of a boat he had seen under construction in Trenton as a boy.

He was given a Scottish Military burial at Northport on Friday accompanied by a piper. The service was conducted by Col. Angus Duffy, former Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Mr. Mowat was a gentle man and an inspiration to everyone who knew him.

He is survived by his wife, Barbara, and three children, John, Mary and Farley.

The opening of the duck hunting season Saturday morning saw 'Nimrods' out on the various shores, beside the ponds and wallowing in the swamps of the area, with various degrees of luck. At least one report of people having their guns seized by officials for illegally baiting a pond has been received, and so far, one hunting accident has been reported in this area.

Higher hunting fees

Daily hunting fees at Presqu'ile Provincial Park are doubling this year, from $4 to $8, to recover more of the operating costs, the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources reports.

Costs include wages, materials and labour to construct blinds and the price of birds to be released.

Anyone who thinks it's good sport to sit in a blind built by taxpayers' money and shoot at birds bought by taxpayers' money and released for them by taxpayers' employees, should pay all...not just more of...the cost.

THINK ABOUT IT!

in question, was sparked off by the fact that, when the SOLD sign went up at the cannery site, no one appeared to know who had bought it or what it would be used for.

Several of the people who had signed the petition said, at Monday's meeting, that they were not against new industry coming into the township but wanted more information about what the industry was.

"We're not a bunch of nasty guys," Fern Cole, new owner, told the council meeting. "We didn't come here begging for a place to buy. We like this place and want to work with our neighbours."

He said he bought the property, zoned M2, for use as a truck terminal and for manufacturing. An M1 rezoning, as requested in the petition, would not have allowed this type of operation.

"We don't expect to make a lot of noise," he said. "We're going to live next to it ourselves and the manufacturing will be inside. Trucks will be parked outside for refuelling, service and repair. You might hear the grinders from 50 feet away."

"Trucks will come at all hours, I don't deny that, but we use common sense and will try to make it as quiet as possible."

Concerning the possible noise level, Deputy Reeve E. Lindsay pointed out that Mr. Ward, solicitor, said the township would have the recourse of drawing up a noise by-law.

Several people commented that "if we're going to take this attitude to industry, our taxes are going to go skyrocketing" and others expressed concern about the lack of jobs in the township.

"We hope to get some of our truck drivers from around here," Mr. Cole said. "We will have to bring some mechanics from Toronto. And there will be eight or 10 people working in the shop, maintaining trucks, etc."

Another concern, brought up by the petitioners, was worry that expansion would come about, and the concern was not lessened, appreciably, when Mr. Ward and Reeve George Foster outlined the procedure for applying for such expansion...the request would have to come to council and only those people owning property within 400 feet would have to be informed of the application and could bring objections to council. If the objections were valid, a hearing could be held.

Deputy Reeve Lindsay said she would not be in favour of rezoning any more shoreline for industrial use.

Another point raised during the discussion was concern about the possibility of the new operation causing a traffic hazard.

Mr. Cole pointed out that he is enlarging the driveways.

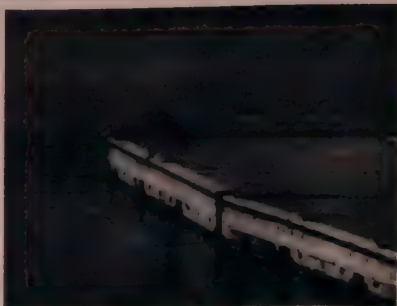

Reeve Foster is going to see about having special highway warning signs posted.

by-law

in more houses to share the tax burden. This isn't the end yet."

A proposal from the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte for use of the sewer and water facilities by Mrs. Harold Maracle, with the Band paying the cost of installation and Mrs. Maracle paying the regular monthly charge, was approved by council, with the hope expressed by Councillor Cole that more people would join in.

Deseronto women will be glad to know that the large bird sitting on the end of the Deseronto dock was not a stork. It has been positively identified as a Great Blue Heron, and does not bring babies - except to mother herons.

Expropriation underway here

farmers by Hydro officials...and property owners interviewed did not express too much concern, as the route has been known for some time.

Hydro is expropriating mainly easement for towers and poles. The Elm-brook site for the facility which will become the main supply for most of the county, already belongs to Hydro and is being rented out at present.

The only properties which really have to be bought are where the 1.1 mile submarine cable leaves South Frederickburgh and where it enters Prince Edward County, according to N. Manning, Ontario Hydro's eastern region public relations officer.

When questioned about the concern of environmentalists because the laying of the submarine line could stir up pollutants in the bottom of Long Reach, Mr. Manning said, "Hydro and the Ministries of Natural Resources and Environment have been working on submarine proposals. They know the pollutants are there. Hydro has consultants studying methods of installation and design along the Long Reach, looking for the most effective way and at the same time doing as little damage environmentally as they possibly can. And Hydro's proposals will be scrutinized by the two Ministries."

When asked why Hydro did not decide on overhead, instead of submarine transmission lines, he said, "We got a lot of opposition locally to going overhead and the decision was made by Cabinet."

The steel towers which will march along most of the route are 120 feet high with a base of 20 by 20 feet.

Where the towers become too visible, 80-foot poles are used. The smaller poles have less visual impact but more of them are needed. Poles are planned for 3.3 miles of the new route...near Long Reach.

At present, Prince Edward County gets its power from two lines coming from Belleville (one crossing at Point Anne and the other at the Bay Bridge) and one from Trenton at Carrying Place.

Altogether, they feed 44,000 volts into Picton and the lines cannot support the growing demand.

THE DESERONTO REPORTER

News and events of specific interest to the residents of the Town of Deseronto

Wednesday, September 28, 1977

Deseronto Council Briefs

Deseronto Council received a letter of thanks from the Deseronto Cemetery Board for work done by summer employees on painting the fence and arch.

Council decided to keep the certificate of approval for the landfill site in Richmond Township valid, although it is not being used at present. It was thought the site might be needed at some future date.

Fletcher Vick, property committee reported on estimates for work to be done on the Town Hall... some windows and painting. Council had budgeted $2,000 for this work. Two estimates have been received, the lower $1,185 from Doyles, of Napanee.

Councillor Cole brought to the Council's attention the presence of derelict vehicles at three locations, College Ave, Prince Street and Stanley Ave. There is a by-law covering this and it was recommended that the police look into it.

The County has set a time of this Saturday morning for a final inspection of the Main Street re-construction. Any input should be made by then.

Promotions were approved for two Deseronto Constables.. R.J. Dennis and E.D. Curran.

Councillor Roger Cole commended the town workers for erecting signs so quickly. "You often hear complaints but they did such a good job, they deserve some credit," he said.

A copy of the property standards by-law, following review by the town solicitor will be sent to each residence with an accompanying letter announcing a public meeting on October 27. This covers the condition of town b covers the condition and appearance of all properties in the town.

The request for severance of the Anthony Elmer land was turned down by Council on Monday, because it would not conform with existing and proposed by laws for minimum frontage.

Councillor Steve Heffernan, Recreation Committee, reported that the $50,000 received for the sale of the ball diamond had been turned over immediately to the Arena Fund.

The Recreation Committee of Deseronto Council is going to look into the possibility of forming a Teen Organization, according to the report, given to Council on Monday by Councillor Steve Heffernan. They will also look into the possibility of changing the swimming location for next year.

The committee has decided that quite a few people were omitted in the recreation survey recently completed and that the next survey should be given total exposure in the town.

Committee members will also be looking into the location for a ball diamond behind the arena.

The Experience '77 program was praised and it was suggested that, in the future; a culture week with the Reserve should be developed.

Deseronto has hired a temporary building inspector for the inspections required under the Ontario Home Renovation Program. He is former town councillor Marvin Brooks, whose chief duties will be to certify that proposed repair and renewal work meets government standards. He has been appointed on a per-application basis. To date, about 25 applications have been received and only one has been turned down.

Deseronto library notes

It's autumn now and the time of year to curl up with a juicy apple and a good book. A mixed selection of fall reading material is now being featured in the front library window, including books on canning and pre-serving.

Cooler weather makes autumn a good time to make repairs around the house or take up a new handicraft. The library has the "How It Works Encyclopedia" and the "Golden Hands Encyclopedia of Crafts" to help you.

Autumn is also a time for walks in the woods, the library has field guides to wildlife and plants to enhance your pleasure.

For the younger set, the library is featuring a collection of books on outer space, astronomy and an especially interesting book concerning UFO's.

ST. MARK'S PICNIC

On Sunday, September 11 the congregation of St. Mark's Anglican Church gathered at the Mahaboy Bay Trailer Park, Deseronto to enjoy a family picnic.

It was a day filled with sunshine warmth and happiness. But best of all, a chance to share these things together, as was God's plan.

The events started off at 2 p.m. with many of the children enjoying a cool dip in the pool, just one of the many facilities offered by the park.

Next came the races for children and adults. The results were as follows: children 3 & 4, winner Peter Algar, children 5 & 6, winner Julie Gilbert, children 7 & 8, Timmy Smart, children 9 & 10, Steven Lindsay, 11 & 12, Cathy Kellar. The three-legged race was won by Linda Beattie and Laurel Keller; shoe scramble race by Linda Beattie; egg race by Jan Gardiner, the relay race, consisting of two teams "Silverster" and "Twely Bird" with all participants receiving gifts.

Then came the nail driving contest with Lorraine Elmy and Linda Beattie tying for first prize for the women and Finley Elmy coming in first for the men.

There were also guessing games such as guessing the number of beans in a jar - won by Jeff Gardiner and the number of pennies on a strip - won by Dana Beckett, Sharon Algar and Tammy Johnson.

Cold drinks and ice cream were available for the children throughout the afternoon.

It would seem that even though we may grow older in years, we are still just children at heart. With the many other facilities offered by the park were fun bikes which proved to be quite a hit with the adults as well as the children. Perhaps even more so.

With the games and races over, all families joined together to take part in a service of Evensong, conducted by Rev. Jack Fletcher to thank God for his many blessings.

Following the service, everyone enjoyed a picnic supper prepared by each family.

Many thanks to each and everyone and "God Bless All".

LONSDALE 4-H CLUB

The first meeting of the Lonsdale 4-H was held at the W.L. Hall in Lonsdale on September 12, 1977 at 7:15. The Leaders, Mrs. Rita Farrell and Mrs. Rosemary Buxton called the meeting to order with the 4-H pledge. Election of Officers proceeded with Gwen McGuinness nominated President by Patti Ann Farrell and Cathy Walsh nominated Vice-President by Teresa Farrell. The club has decided upon a floating secretary and the press reporter is Mary Lou Immesee. The Member Pamphlets were handed out and the Leaders gave a brief outline of the project, The Cereal Shelf, and a discussion followed on cereals and their value and availability. Rosemary Buxton and Mary Lou Immesee demonstrated the making of "Brownies". The second meeting of the club was held on September 19, with all sixteen

During the past week, the Deseronto Lions Club assisted Mrs. Roger Cole, who was the chief organizer, in canvassing the town for the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. The event was very successful and the Lions Club officers thank all the members and their wives for the great support shown and given during the campaign.

members present. Mrs. Farrell and Mrs. Buxton, the Leaders, handed out pamphlets on wheat and wheat flour and the group discussed the wheat kernel, and the differences between whole and refined grain were discussed.

Gwen McGuinness and Cathy Walsh made "Dogwoods" and Judy Vance and Jeanie Hubbers made "Garden Green Rice".

The club's next meeting is to be held on September 26, 1977.

The ladies' broomball season will be starting soon and they are hoping for a better turnout this year.

Last year they started in the middle of the season and the only ice time they could get was early Sunday mornings. If you're interested, just call Dawn Cassidy at 396-2736.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cummings of 96 Mill Street, Deseronto, attended the annual banquet for Ontario Hydro Pensioners' Association, held at Campbellton on Thursday, September 22. Mr. Cummings was a foreman with Hydro.

HOT SLAW FOR SAUSAGES

3 tablespoons butter
4-5 cups well packed shredded cabbage
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
Fried sausages.

Melt butter in large frying pan, add cabbage, stir until well coated with fat. Cook over low heat for 8-10 minutes, stirring often until cabbage is softened but not fried. Place in a warm bowl.

Add remaining ingredients, toss together until thoroughly blended.

Serve with cooked sausages on top and mashed potatoes at the side.

Serves 6-7

CHOCOLATE ROLL

1 package (6 oz) chocolate chips
2 tablespoons butter

1 cup icing sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups coloured miniature marshmallows
1 cup maraschino cherries, quartered
1 cup chopped walnuts
cocoa nut

Melt chocolate chips and butter together. Add remaining ingredients except cocoa nut. Mix well. Cool. Make mixture into a roll, roll in cocoa nut, wrap in wax paper and chill well. Serve in thin slices.

SALMON BURGERS

1/2 pound tin salmon (bones, etc. removed)

1 teaspoon sweet pickle relish
Mayonnaise (enough to moisten well)
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix all ingredients together. Put on hamburger buns that were buttered and toasted under the broiler (that really makes a difference)
Top with lettuce and serve like a hamburger.

Amherstview - hazards too

Pictou isn't the only place with a traffic problem near a school. Amherstview has one too.

Ernestown Councillors have expressed their concern with "dangerous traffic hazards" on Amherst Drive, a location which contains a public school, sports field, fire hall, community hall and library.

Deputy Reeve Ian Wilson claimed, "It is quite a speedway down Amherst Drive. Speeders are supposed to be discouraged by police."

Council decided to ask the OPP's district headquarters to make a radar unit available more often to the Amherstview detachment.

Isn't it a pity that all drivers don't have the sense to police their own actions behind the wheel...especially in areas where they know children are moving about?

Man killed

Melvin Douglas Baptiste, 21, of Shannonville, was killed last Thursday night when the car he was driving struck a tree at the entrance to the village.

Three passengers in the car, all from Shannonville, were injured and taken to the Belleville Hospital. They were Brenda Maracle, 16, fractured pelvis; Glen Sagrifi, 19, hip injuries, and Mario Baptiste, 20, brother of the dead man, facial injuries.

What to do?

What do you do with a 100-year-old post office which cost you $37,500?

That's the question facing Napanee Property Committee of Town Council.

A department store, hotel, meeting place, youth hostel and apartments have all been suggested.

Committee has had one bid of $3,500 for a feasibility study for the building, but members want to have at least one other bid to choose from.

Mayor Lorne Smart wants a quick decision and has given the committee until the next regular council meeting for an answer.
